Big Airliner Carrying 27 Lost In East

Plane Disappears Before Landing At Charlottesville, Va.

BULLETIN
CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)—Ground parties looking for an airliner missing since Friday night with 27 persons aboard reported spotting today what may be its wreckage.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)—A twin-engine airliner with 27 persons aboard disappeared Friday night five minutes before it was to make a routine landing at this college town in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains.

About 100 searchers slogged through muck and underbrush during the night but by midmorning still had not found a trace of the missing Piedmont Airlines DC3. A steady drizzle, fog and mist hampered a planned air search.

The plane, en route from Washington to Roanoke, Va., checked in with the local airport tower at 8:24 p.m. (EST) and received landing instructions. That was the final word. The airliner had fuel to last only until 11 p.m.

Piedmont officials withheld the names of the 24 passengers pending notification of next of kin. Crew members aboard were Capt. George Larrinc, the pilot; Lee Haley, the first officer; and George Hicks, the purser. No home addresses were available immediately.

Maj. Charles A. Rausch, Civil Air Patrol commander for the central Virginia area, said between 20 and 30 fixed-wing aircraft from as far away as Massachusetts are waiting for a break in the weather to join the search.

Reports of hearing a low-flying airplane trickled in from throughout a four-county central Virginia area. Rausch said as soon as two reports come from the same location the search would be centered there.

A single-engine private plane with a Piedmont pilot as observer took off at 9:30 a. m., flying beneath a ceiling that shrouded the tops of surrounding mountain peaks, to check out a report of an explosion about 25 miles north of here.

At one time the search was centered near the hamlet of Ruckersville, about 16 miles northeast of here, after several unconfirmed reports had been received of a low-flying plane and an explosion. The searchers, using special vehicles brought in from as far away as Richmond, covered an area of about 20 miles radius during the night but planned to expand the coverage area today.

The terrain around this town, home of the University of Virginia, is rolling country side. Many farms and estates and dense woods dot the area.

Windstorms Batter Utah, California

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP)—Savage windstorms slashed a trail of costly destruction across northern Utah and southern California Friday as a wave of violent weather raked the West. Estimates of damage ran as high as five million dollars in Utah.

Two children drowned in central Arizona flash floods which were described as the worst in that section since 1951. A fast-moving storm dumped from 6 to 15½ inches of snow along the eastern slopes of the Rockies and in the western plains states.

The tornadic winds in Utah howled off the Wasatch Mountain Range and caused widespread damage in a heavily populated region from Salt Lake City 75 miles north to Tremonton, on the Utah-Idaho border.

At least 10 people were hurt in Utah as winds of up to 92 miles per hour toppled houses, uprooted trees and smashed thousands of windows. A dozen truck and trailer rigs were flipped over. State police halted truck, bus and small car traffic for several hours on open highways.

Winds of hurricane force accompanied a freak weather pattern in southern California. Rain, hail, snow and lightning storms uprooted trees in Los Angeles County. Cotton crops in the lush Imperial Valley suffered damage estimated at a quarter of a million dollars.

High winds fanned a score of fires in northern California forests. An estimated 16,000 acres burned and threatened some highways, closing U.S. 50. One woman was killed when a tree fell onto a pickup truck in the High Sierra.

Chester Boy Dies Of Injuries When Struck In Traffic

A 6-year-old Chester area boy died early this morning in City Hospital of injuries received when struck by an auto late Friday afternoon on State Route 2 in Hancock County.

James Hilary Johnston II, son of John W. and Mary Ann Rogers Johnston of State Route 2 back of Chester, died at 12:08 a. m. today after being struck by an auto of a Girard man.

He was on his way to Huff's Grocery Store on Route 2 to purchase a candy bar when the accident occurred at 5:15 p. m. Friday.

A first grader at the Chester Central school, he suffered lacerations of the face and scalp, a fractured left wrist, fractures of both legs and a crushed chest.

Sheriff's deputies said the driver of the auto, which was traveling north, was John P. Fisher, 56. The youth was struck by the right front section of Fisher's auto that appeared "not to be traveling at a great speed," deputies said.

The youth was the county's sixth traffic fatality of 1959.

A coroner's jury has been impaneled by Squire John D. Herron of New Cumberland and an inquest is scheduled for Wednesday night at 8 in the squire office.

Besides the parents, the boy is survived by a brother, John W. Johnston, and a sister, Millicent Johnston, both at home, the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hilary Johnston, and the material grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Rogers, all of Chester.

Services will be held Monday at 2 p. m. at the Arner Chester Chapel by the Rev. Robert Backstrom of the Chester First United Presbyterian Church. Burial will be in Locust Hill Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home tonight and Sunday.

Union's Plea To Be Heard In T-H Move

Supreme Court Sets Tuesday For Oral Arguments In Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has agreed to hear the United Steelworkers Union's appeal of a Taft-Hartley law injunction that would send the striking steelworkers back to work for 80 days.

This means the 109-day-old strike will continue at least until next week, when the court makes its decision on whether to let the injunction stand. The court set Tuesday for oral arguments.

The high court's action Friday was a triumph for the union, which is attacking the basic constitutionality of the Taft-Hartley strike - ending procedures. This process has never had a review by the Supreme Court in its 12 years of existence.

The government contends the strike is affecting national health and safety. It fought the union's request for a review, saying the constitutional arguments are "clearly without merit" and "there is no need for further review by this court."

If the Supreme Court had declined to hear the case, it would have left standing the ruling of a Philadelphia appeals court that the injunction is legal and valid. The appeals court had upheld the original decision of a Pittsburgh federal judge who issued the injunction.

But the appeals court, while ruling against the union, allowed the strike to continue until the union could take the issue to the highest court. The nine justices now have extended this period of grace until they hand down their ruling.

The union wants the strike to continue because it feels it is at last beginning to hurt the big steel companies badly. Union President David J. McDonald argues that the companies refuse to make concessions to the union because they think they'll be taken off the hook by the Taft-Hartley injunction.

Top negotiators for the union and the steel companies met for an hour and a half in Pittsburgh Friday, and reported no progress. Another meeting is set for today.

Federal Mediation Chief Joseph Finnegan has called both sides for a session in Washington Monday if they don't get anywhere over the weekend. Finnegan turned down a company request to hold the mediation meeting in Pittsburgh.

McDonald, in a telegram to Finnegan, said the companies "remain adamant and they remain inflexible."

The strike involves half a million steelworkers and has idled 325,000 more workers in related industries. General Motors virtually closed down its production lines Friday for lack of steel. More than 185,000 GM workers have been furloughed and there will be more next week. Other auto companies still are operating, but they are feeling the pinch.

Beaver Voters To Decide 13 County Posts

87,417 Registered With Democrats In Lead For County

Beaver County's 87,417 eleigible voters will fill 13 offices in Tuesday's general election.

Registered voters include 46,326 Democrats, 40,386 Republicans, 642 independent and non-partisan and 64 others.

Voters will choose three county commissioners and the district attorney, among races attracting the most attention.

Each party has two candidates for commissioners but the top man of the minority party will get the third post.

Candidates of both Republican and Democratic parties have conducted intensive campaigns for several weeks.

A large turnout is anticipated if weather is good and since many local communities will be electing councilmen, assessors, auditors, supervisors and school board members.

Some observers believe about 68 to 72 per cent of eligible voters will go to the polls, while others feel the turnout will be down to 50 per cent. Polls will be open from 7 a. m. to 8 p. m.

Democratic candidates include Gordon camp, incumbent, of Rochester Township, and James E. Ross of Beaver, for commissioners; Russell Milnes of Aliquippa, treasurer; Richard P. Steward, incumbent, of New Brighton, district attorney.

Blasts Follow When Spigots Put Forth Gas

CRESTVIEW, Fla. (AP) — A plumber's error plunged this town of 10,000 persons into a night of terror.

Five persons were injured in three explosions Friday night after butane gas gushed into the city water system.

Mayor Harry Booth said the plumber got his lines mixed while working at a small Negro cafe and hooked a gas line from a 250-gallon tank onto a water main. Butane gas is used for heating.

The cafe was almost destroyed and a 5-year-old Negro boy, Larry Thompson, was injured.

A short while later Carolyn Eiland Kennedy started to brush her teeth at her father's home. When she turned on the water spigot, gas fumes reached a pilot light on a heater in the bathroom and an explosion followed. She and father, Arthur Eiland, were slightly injured.

The third explosion occurred at the home of Miss Elizabeth Dennis, supervisor of lunchrooms for the county school system. She and a teacher, Miss Lillie Waldron, were injured. Those two and young Larry were hospitalized.

$80,758 Seen Lowest Offer On Sewer Job

10 Contractors File Proposals To Shift Big West End Line

A Mahoning County firm turned in the apparent low bid of $80,758 Friday noon when sealed offers from 10 contractors were opened at City Hall for the first phase of relocation of the Carpenters Run trunk line sanitary sewer.

The low offer was filed by Sikora Bros. Excavating Co. of Poland. Others ranged up to a high of $137,181.

Mayor Fred P. Lawrence and Safety - Service Director Joseph F. Ross opened the bids before a crowd of contractors and material suppliers in the Council Chamber. All the figures were turned over to Michael Baker Jr., Inc., of Rochester, consulting enginner. When the concern has tabulated and evaluated the offers, it will report to the administration.

Each concern was asked to submit a base bid covering use of precast reinforced concrete manholes in the line and an alternate bid for standard brick manholes. Sikora's base bid and alternate were identical. The job involves five manholes.

Specifications require the contractor to complete the project in 120 working days. Such sewer work generally is performed despite winter weather.

The project covers relocation of the big line from the sewage treatment plant behind Westgate School to a point in California Hollow near the old stone quarry on the bluff below Pleasant Heights. The relocated line will run just east of Westgate to a point in the center of W. 8th St. at Lisbon St., then follow W. 9th St. to Claiborne Ave. At W. 9th and Claiborne, it will make a right angle turn to follow the course of California Hollow, roughly parallel with Dresden Ave.

At present the trunk line lies in the bed of the run for much of its length, emptying into the river east of the treatment plant. As part of the first phase of relocation, the trunk line will be tied in with the treatment plant.

2 Wellsburg Men Die When Car Rams Tree

PENNSBORO, W. Va. (AP) — Two men were killed Friday night when their car missed a curve on U. S. 50 near here and hit a tree.

Trooper B. W. Adkins identified them as Harry W. White, 55, and Eugene D. Kunzler, 51, both of Wellsburg.

The cause of death for the men was given as crushed chests and head injuries. Adkins said the accident was one of the worst he had seen during his carrer with the State Police. It brought to seven the number of highway fatalities in Ritchie County so far in 1959, possibly the most for any year ever.

Adkins said White was driving when the car went off the road about halfway between here and Ellenboro, or approximately 40 miles east of Parkersburg.

12 Men Are Arraigned For Gambling Activity

BOSTON (AP) — Internal Revenue agents who have been investigating a multi-million dollar interstate gambling syndicate for nine months arraigned 12 men Friday night and hope to serve another warrant during the weekend.

Ten were seized in three raids by the T-men and U.S. deputy marshals and two others surrendered later.

Hits Irish Sweepstake

Former Woman Resident Is Winner Of $140,000

By CHARLES CRONIN

Lady Luck has beamed on a former East Liverpool resident now residing in Los Angeles.

Miss Betty Drumm, a daughter of Mrs. Frances Uhlworm of Industry, R. D. 1, learned Wednesday that she had won $140,000 as her share of the Irish Sweepstakes.

The blue-eyed blonde is one of five Angelenos who won the unheard-of-pot-of-gold for holding winning tickets on Rexequus, a 25-1 shot that won the Cambridgeshire Stakes in Newmarket, England.

Miss Drumm was born and reared in East Liverpool and has five sisters and brothers in this area. She went to California nine years ago and has been working in a pottery there as a ware finisher.

Advised that she had won $140,000, Miss Drumm exclaimed happily that "I don't know what I'm going to do with the money."

She added that "I guess I'll go back to my hometown, East Liverpool, Ohio. I haven't been there in five years."

The sweepstakes ticket is the second one she ever purchased although she confessed later to newsmen that "I gambled on most everything else."

Miss Drumm, who is expected to fly here soon to visit her mother, said her sudden stroke of luck isn't going to change her outlook on matrimony.

"I don't intend to get married," she declared," I was single when I was broke, and I guess I can stay single with money."

She phoned her mother from California shortly after learning of her luck and Mrs. Uhlworm said

7,000 Turnout Seen

Mayor, Judge Races And Income Tax To Feature Vote Here

City Hospital Levy Also Up For Renewal

Residents Will Also Decide Extension Of Garbage Service Tax

For the second time in a year, East Liverpool voters will decide the fate of a city income tax at the general election Tuesday.

Renewal of the three - quarter-mill City Hospital levy and a half-mill garbage and trash collection levy also are at stake.

A simple majority will decide each of the three local issues. In a nutshell, the propositions are this:

If voters approve, a tax of 60 cents will go into effect on each $100 of income, successor to an 80-cent tax that was repealed by the electorate a year ago.

The hospital levy, which has been in effect about 30 years, provides $28,000 to $30,000 annually which is used mainly to care for city charity cases.

The garbage and trash levy produces about $19,000 a year to help operate the incinerator department. The basic refuse levy is 2 mills, but the additional half - mill was enacted a few years ago to help cover rising costs and expand services.

In the income tax proposal, although the basic question is the same, there is little further resemblance to the ordinance that was repealed a year ago.

The 1958 tax was enacted as an emergency measure, which meant that collection started almost immediately, despite a Trades and Labor Council move to test it at the polls. Effective May 1, it was rejected by the voters, 5,375 to 3,475, at the November general election.

Heeding the principal arguments of opponents when it enacted another tax measure last spring, Council cut the size of the "bite" and left out the emergency clause, which meant none of the tax could be collected if an opposition group forced a test at the polls.

Council approved the new tax ordinance April 6. Four days later, Trades Council started circulation of petitions seeking a referendum on the question. The petitions were filed May 18 with the County Election Board, which later granted a ballot place for the issue.

In all of its major aspects — except for the size of the tax — the ordinance that will be voted upon Tuesday is similar to the measure that was in effect for a little over 6 months in 1958.

It levies the tax on wages and other income, the profits of businesses and manufacturers and the fees of professional men. It exempts items such as pensions, un-

Ike's Doctors Confirm Case Of Bronchitis

President Reported In Excellent Health Other Than That

WASHINGTON (AP—President Eisenhower's doctors today confirmed he has mild chronic bronchitis but said that otherwise he "continues to maintain an excellent state of health."

The physicians issued a medical bulletin shortly after Eisenhower checked out of Walter Reed Army Hospital where he underwent his annual physical checkup.

The 69-year-old President told reporters in Augusta, Ga., last week that he had developed chronic bronchitis during the last three years.

Today's medical bulletin said regarding Eisenhower's head-to-toe examination at Walter Reed: "The results of these all inclusive studies shows that the President continues to maintain an excellent state of health, with the exception of a persistent mild tracheo-bronchitis."

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told reporters in response to questions that the medical phrase could be translated into chronic bronchitis.

Hagerty added that Eisenhower's physicians had told him that "whenever possible it would be helpful for him to get into warmer climates, preferably dry."

Responding to another question, Hagerty said Eisenhower had no present plans to go to such a climate at this time.

The President went to Palm Springs, Calif., late last month in an effort to shake a nagging cold which he had caught in early September. His health was reported improved after that visit, but he still had remnants of the cold.

Last week he spent five days in Augusta, Ga., in another search for sunshine, but the weather was miserable during most of that stay.

The President was enthusiastic about the outcome of this latest physical examination, despite the doctors' confirmation that he has chronic bronchitis.

On leaving the hospital this morning, he smiled broadly and said regarding the result: "It's so good I'd like to go back oftener."

Lt. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, the Army's surgeon general, called results of the checkup "the best we ever had."

Missile Bases To Take Over For Bombers

U.S. To Close Down Fields In Morocco; Swings To Turkey

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Western powers apparently have practically completed a shift in European defense emphasis from bombers to missiles. Two developments make this clear:

1. The United States has agreed to close down its four air bases and one naval base in Morocco.

2. The United States has reached an agreement with Turkey to set up an intermedate-range Jupiter missile base in that country, strategically located on Russia's border.

The issue of the American air bases in Moroccan soil has been politically explosive since the little North African kingdom gained its independence in 1956.

The Moroccans have long wanted the American forces withdrawn. The State Department announced that plans for the withdrawal have been presented to the Moroccan prime minister.

Negotiations for the missile base in Turkey, which will offset the loss of the Moroccan bases, have been under way for some time. Formal agreement was announced Friday.

The abandonment of the air bases follows a change in strategy that began in December 1957.

The Allied high command at that time decided to gradually shift emphasis from bombers, now becoming obsolete in the missile age, to rockets capable of carrying nuclear warheads.

Oil Firm Files Sealed By Cuban Government

HAVANA, (AP) — The Cuban government, which already has slapped stiff new taxes on mineral production, moved against all foreign oil exploration companies Friday night by sealing their office files.

Agents from the Ministry of Public Works entered the companies' offices without warning.

They said the government is preparing to draft a new petroleum law and wants all the technical information in the hands of the oil companies.

County Vote Expected To Hit 30,000

Board's Predictions For Tuesday Would Exceed 1957 Result

About 30,000 Columbiana County voters will cast ballots Tuesday to elect city, village, township and school district officials and act on 32 special questions and issues—mainly tax levies and bond issues to finance their local government operations.

Issuing that prediction today, Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk of the County Election Board, also estimated that the countywide turnout will include 7,000 East Liverpool voters.

If the vote hits predicted levels, it will be up slightly from November 1957, the last comparable election. Columbiana County cast 28,003 ballots 2 years ago, including 6,587 in East Liverpool.

Every Municipal Office Here At Stake

In East Liverpool, every municipal office will be at stake — mayor, Council president, auditor, treasurer, solicitor, three Council-at-large posts and four ward Council seats. Voting as part of wider areas, the city also will play the major role in electing a Municipal Court judge and three members of the Board of Education.

Voters' interest will center on the mayoralty and court races.

Mayor Fred P. Lawrence, Republican, is seeking a second term, opposed by Bert H. Goodballet of Martin St., Democrat, a veteran of 16 years in Council.

Lawrence won his current term on a reform ticket in the election two years ago. He took office Jan. 1, 1958, succeeding Arnold W. Devon, Democrat. Lawrence operates Sayre Electric Contracting, Inc., and Sayre Electric Retailing, Inc., on Market St.

It will be the second Lawrence-Goodballet mayoralty race. Goodballet, then Council president, lost to Lawrence in the 1957 election, 4,379 to 2,121.

Goodballet Gave Up Council Presidency

Goodballet left public office two years ago, when he stepped down from the Council presidency to run for mayor. He served 11 years as First Ward councilman and 5 years as president. He also is a veteran pottery worker.

Lawrence was renominated without opposition in the GOP primary in May. Goodballet topped a three-way Democratic race.

A three-man contest for municipal judge will steal some of the spotlight from the mayor's race. The candidates are on a non-partisan judicial ballot which does not list party affiliations.

Judge George L. Brokaw, a veteran of almost 10 years on the bench, is running for a third term, opposed by Atty. William S. Foulks, 239 W. 2nd St., who has practiced law here for 40 years, and Atty. Samuel M. Chertoff of Midway Ln., a lawyer since 1935.

Judge Brokaw In Law Practice Since 1910

Judge Brokaw has practiced law in East Liverpool since 1910. He was elected first to a four-year term to succeed the late Judge Frank E. Grosshans, who retired. When the judge ran a second time, for the term in which he now is serving, the tenure had been extended to six years by the State Legislature.

Judge Brokaw, 84, is one of the oldest members of the County Bar Association, both in age and point of service.

Atty. Foulks set up practice here in the spring of 1917, but left shortly afterward for service in World

2 City Boys Cited On TV Vandalism

Two 16-year-old youths, cited by police for cutting television lead-in wires during the past week, are to appear Monday morning before Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin at Lisbon.

The pair, both from the downtown area, had preliminary hearings this morning before Chris Pusey, county juvenile officer, who ordered them to appear Monday.

Police said the two admitted cutting the lead-in wires on 35 to 40 television antennas. Police received numerous complaints from residents complaining of the vandalism.

Cutting the wires led the residents to believe their set had gone off, officers said.

Woman Injured In Auto Wreck

A 41-year-old Salineville woman is in "fair" condition today at City Hospital with injuries suffered in an auto accident about 9:05 a.m. Friday on Route 164 near Salineville.

Mrs. Rosemary Fitch, wife of Stanley Fitch, Salineville mayorality candidate, suffered back, internal and hip injuries in the mishap.

The preliminary investigation by the Wintersville State Highway Patrol indicates Mrs. Fitch's car struck the rear of another but the family said the womann ditched her vehicle to avoid a collision. The driver of the other car was James E. Coughen, 33, of Salineville, according to the patrol.

The patrol said slight damage resulted to the Coughen car while considerable damage resulted to the Fitch vehicle. The family said Mrs. Fitch was driving a 1959 hardtop coupe which was demolished.

Fitch said his house - to - house mayorality campaign has been interrupted by the mishap.

The patrol said it is continuing its investigation.

The first officially accepted record for speed in an automobile was set in December of 1898, when Comte de Chasseloup drove his car at the then-blazing speed of 39.24 miles an hour.

For Sight-Saving Funds

Lions To Launch Light Bulb Sale

A 4-year-old girl suffering from convergent strabismus — crossed eyes— is pinning her hopes for recovery on an Alliance eye specialist and indirectly on the East Liverpool Lions Club which is financing treatments.

She cannot focus both eyes on an object because of incoordination of the muscles in the eyeballs.

Because of her age, the physician is attempting to use therapy to correct the condition rather than surgery.

And the Lions Club, whose principal charity is sight saving, is footing the bill.

Many other needy youngsters have received eye examinations, eye glasses and undergone treatment for sight defects with the club paying the bills. In the past year, the club has paid for 18 eye examinations and purchased 18 pair of glasses.

It has donated $25 to the Ohio Research Foundation for Eye Conservation, which allots sums to three universities for continuing research and is working toward establishment of "eye banks."

The club finances its sight saving activities through the sale of light bulbs and brooms.

It will launch its annual light bulb sale Monday night at 5:30 with eight teams canvassing the East Liverpool area. A bag of bulbs, containing 4 of 60 watts and 2 each of 75 and 100 watts, will be sold for $2.

James Johnston, general chairman, is shown in the photo selling the first bag to Mayor Fred P. Lawrence as Safety - Service Director Joseph F. Ross waits to make his purchase.

Johnston announced final details for the sale at the club's meeting Friday noon at the Travelers Hotel.

The sale Monday night will end at 8 for the Board of Directors meeting at Tice's Restaurant. It also will be held Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

George McCullough, zone chairman, announced a zone meeting will be held Wednesday night at the Lisbon club. He also reminded members of a tour of the Shippingport atomic power plant on Nov. 18 at 7 p. m.

Alvin T. Babb, vice president-secretary of YELP Service, Inc., and a member of the Municipal Civil Service Commission, spoke on the need for city planning.

Before the meeting, Winston A. Porter spoke in support of the City Hospital levy, up for renewal at Tuesday's general election.

Court Refuses City Slayer's Freedom Bid

Common Pleas Judge Raymond S. Buzzard Friday overruled a legal bid by Raymond E. Porter, formerly of East Liverpool, who prepared his own written motion in an effort to overturn the verdict that sent him to the Ohio Penitentiary for a life term two years ago for the murder of a special patrolman.

Judge Buzzard refused Porter's motion to be furnished with a transcript of the testimony and evidence in his trial, which ended Nov. 9, 1957, when a jury found him guilty of the murder of Special Officer Joseph E. Mumford on Nov. 16, 1956. His motion was designed to clear the way for a motion for a new trial or other legal moves.

Porter's motion, including citation of several other cases as precedents, was prepared in his penitentiary cell. However, he was represented in court by counsel, Atty. Samuel M. Chertoff of East Liverpool and Atty. John Beck of Lisbon.

In the journal entry on the outcome of the hearing, Judge Buzzard wrote that there was no evidence that Porter had been denied due process of law or equal protection of the laws.

He also wrote that there is no record that the defendant ever filed a notice of appeal or a motion for leave to appeal or made a request to file a bill of exceptions. Any of those motions might have opened the way for a request to be furnished with a transcript.

Forter, now 24, was given a life term because the jury recommended mercy along with the first degree verdict. The special officer was shot from ambush outside as he sat drinking coffee in the West End home of Mrs. Ida Danner. Mrs. Danner, now 21, was wounded critically at the same time but she eventually recovered and testified at Porter's trial.

Sewer

Relocation of the lower end of the sewer ties in indirectly with plans for construction of the first stage of a city freeway, extending from the city limits at California Hollow through West End to W. 3rd and Monroe Sts. Part of the new four - lane road's path will follow the present route of the run and the sewer.

Financing of the work already has been worked out, including a grant of approximately 33 per cent from the federal government. A bond issue sold several years ago to finance construction of an interceptor sewer system included part of the funds for the Carpenters Run project. The balance will come out of sewage treatment plant revenue.

Other bidders, showing first their base price and then their alternate offers, if any, were:

Ahl Brothers Construction Co., Inc., of Wheeling, $109,769; no alternate; Roger J. Au & Sons of Mansfield, $109,308; no alternate; J. R. Savage, General Contractor, of Columbus, $123,299.95; $123,060.95 alternate; Erskine Construction & Mining Co. of Youngstown, $94,076; no alternate; Golden Triangle Construction Co. of Pittsburgh, $133,381.10; $137,181.10 alternate.

W. Paul Brooks & Sons of Beaver Falls, $94,197.60; no alternate; Sheaf Construction Co. of Columbus, $124,486.50; $124,416.50 alternate; O'Brien & Redmond, Inc., of Devon, Pa., $114,932.25; $117,022.25 alternate, and Kundel Construction Co. of Warren, $120,782.20; $121,332.20 alternate.

The board rejected a bid from Courtney, Inc., of Beaver because it was received several minutes after the noon deadline. The sealed offer was not opened.

Palestine Boy Hurt

EAST PALESTINE — Wallace Aiken, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Aiken, 375 S. Market St., is in "fair" condition today at Salem City Hospital with injuries suffered when struck by a car while riding a bicycle near his home Friday about 5 p. m. The driver was cited.

The accurate clock carried on ships for use in navigation is called a chronometer.

Trustee Hands In Resignation

Willard G. Sanford, formerly of Dixonville, has resigned as a member of the Liverpool Township trustees.

Sandford's letter of resignation was read at a meeting Friday night at City Hall. Sanford, who is now at Ft. Pierce, Fla., tendered his resignation effective immediately.

In his letter, Sanford said he was resigning because of his health and that he plans to make Ft. Pierce his permanent home. Sanford was appointed a trustee two years ago to replace his father, Louis Sanford, who resigned and also moved to Florida.

In other business, two bids were opened on a new truck chassis. Wimmer Motor Sales of Walnut St. bid $4,450, without a trade-in, on the 2-to-2½-ton vehicle while O. S. Hill & Sons of Lisbon bid $4,444.85. The trustees will investigate the bids and meet again Friday night at 7 to consider letting a contract, according to Simon Hall, clerk.

The trustees also authorized purchase of two resuscitators, one each for the West and East volunteer fire departments. They will cost about $600 each. Various companies will be asked to demonstrate their equipment before any purchase is made.

The firemen also were authorized to purchase antifreeze and wax for the fire trucks.

Mr. and Mrs. Voter, when you go to the polls Tuesday, November 3rd, give thought to the following questions.

1. The present administration says it is unbossed from the outside, but what about the inside?
2. Why did the present administration have to go out of town to hire a safety service director at a salary of $9,000.00 a year?
3. Why a year later did the director resign?
4. Why is the present administration trying to shun the responsibility of the wage tax issue, which will appear on the ballot November 3rd?
5. Has the present administration made any effort to obtain new industry, large or small?
6. Why was it necessary to buy additional lots, when the city owns lots that could be used for off street parking?
7. Why was the dog warden taken off his job and put in another department of the city and his truck turned over to another department?
8. What has happened to the traffic survey made on the Chester bridge? Is it true that the State Department of Highways would have made the same survey with no cost to the city?

Ohio Constitutional Issues

Unless rapid-fire legal action brings an Ohio Supreme Court ruling before next Tuesday's election, voters will be faced with a giant-sized ballot bearing three-proposed constitutional amendments approved by the 103rd General Assembly.

One of these—Issue No. 3 authorizing the formation of metropolitan federations—already has been declared invalid by the high court because of a technical error in recording it in the legislative journal. Any votes cast on it will be ignored by election officials.

The other two issues are aimed primarily at solving problems faced by Cleveland and Cuyahoga County, though one or the other might also benefit the big metropolitan areas elsewhere in the state.

Issue No. 1 would remove the present constitutional provision that prevents cities from selling more than 50 per cent of their water and sewer services outside their boundaries.

Most communities in the Cleveland metropolitan area depend upon the big city for the water supplies. Most of them have no other possible source of supply.

Consequently, Cleveland has reached the 50 per cent ceiling on the water services it provides outside its own limits. New and expanding communities in that area are going to be in serious trouble if they are not able to meet their water needs from Cleveland's supply.

Because of that fact and because the proposed amendment would be permissive, leaving the actual decision on water contracts to the local communities involved, we support Issue No. 1 on the state ballot.

Issue No. 2 would give the Legislature authority to create additional appeals court judgeships where it feels they are needed.

The state judicial system at present has 10 appellate districts, each limited by the constitution to three judges.

The work load in these districts is not uniformly distributed because of area and population differences. In some of the districts, the three judges are far from overburdened. In others, notably Cuyahoga and Franklin (Columbus) counties, the appellate case load is much heavier.

In the past, the problem has been handled through assignment of appellate judges from other districts to help with the work in the busier districts. Some judges and lawyers believe, however, that this is not a satisfactory solution and have urged removal of the three-judge limit.

The Ohio State Bar Assn. has endorsed the proposed amendment, but we do not believe the problem has been studied thoroughly enough and therefore are not convinced at this time that the amendment is the wisest solution.

We urge defeat of Issue No. 2 on the state ballot.

The Garbage Levy

East Liverpool's garbage and trash collection has been functioning well, with little room for complaint.

The new land fill dumping area is another of the frequent steps that are being taken to keep ahead of the problem represented by the refuse.

Funds for the collections are provided through two-mill and half-mill tax levies. The half-mill levy is up for renewal this year. Running through 1963, if approved, it would amount to 5 cents for each $100 of valuation.

The levy is needed to assure continuation of the present system. Were it to be defeated, the collection of garbage and trash would not come to a halt, but a curtailment of services would result. Elimination of the half-mill levy would mean the loss of some $18,000 to $19,000 a year, with a reduction in service being inevitable.

The levy will not mean more taxes, since it is a renewal. It deserves your support at the polls on Tuesday.

School Board

Four men are running for three seats on the Board of Education which serves the East Liverpool school district.

They are James B. Moss, C. Walter Ashbaugh, James Lowe and Judson W. Allison. The first three are incumbents seeking another term. Mr. Allison is making his first bid for the post.

School board members have a responsible but thankless job. Their critics are many and their pay negligible. The very fact that they are aware of this before seeking the position speaks well for their civic-mindedness. Most of those who serve on the board do so with the feeling that they have something worthwhile to offer for the betterment of the school system.

Criticism has been leveled at the three incumbents on occasions, in most cases by sports-minded people. Some of the criticism may have been justified, much of it may not have been. Over all, however, Mr. Moss, Mr. Ashbaugh and Mr. Lowe have served conscientiously and have devoted much time to their board duties.

Two are certain to be returned, since there are three seats open.

The question the voters must settle in their own minds is whether the fresh approach that a new man would bring to the board—in this case Mr. Allison—is needed.

The Health Levy

Public health is becoming an ever-increasing problem for Columbiana County's townships and villages as these areas continue to expand.

To obtain more money with which to meet health needs, the county Health Department has placed a levy on Tuesday's ballot. It calls for two-tenths of a mill for five years, with the cost 20 cents for each $1,000 of valuation.

The department serves areas outside the county's four cities. East Liverpool, Salem, Wellsville and East Palestine, which have their own health departments, will not vote on the issue.

The Review recommends that the levy be approved on Tuesday. The Health Department needs more money to do the job that is required.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Russia is ahead in photographs of the far side of the moon. But the U.S. is ahead in photos of the far side of pleasure resorts, electric iceboxes, movie stars and all-comfort house furnishings. Also both sides of 1960 autos and the Gabor sisters.

While the Soviets were working wonders to establish themselves as the greatest power, we were busy photographing the front side of David McDonald, Roger Blough and all of the quiz show principals.

Moscow with a 600-pound rocket took a picture of the moon area long hidden from man, including even Mrs. Roosevelt, Walter Lippman, Senate subcommittees, Lowell Thomas, Drew Pearson and Ed Murrow. Russia is the only nation that can open the family album, point to a photo between an uncle and a second cousin and say, "that's our moon."

It has figuratively put the first signs "Sea of Moscow," "Tchaikowski Hill Ahead" and "Take Next Right to Lake Ivan" on the moon.

More photos are expected with spots marked "Valley of Nikita Khrushchev," and the "Uncle Joe Craters."

THE WORLD WILL BE LUCKY if the entire moon isn't named after Lenin. Depressing fact is that the photo of the U.S.A. today would call for such names as "Sea of Hamstrung Industry," "Deadlock Hills" and the "Crater of Economic Snafu."

Still Khrushchev is reported disappointed. Camera revealed no creatures on the moon, back, front, top or bottom, who could be denounced as crude conspirators, warmongers and base foes of peace.

The United States has more cameras, more photographers and more drugstores for developing films than Russia but it gets its picture of the moon from Tin Pan Alley, Kate Smith and Poetry Magazine.

Let's face it: Uncle Sam is left without a back of the moon photo he can call his own. But he will get there yet, and the 1960 election may be won by the candidate who guarantees "Yankee Doodle the Dandy Mountain" sign on top of the moon by 1961.

It's possible that Arcaro's valet didn't get him up early enough to catch the plane and that Shoemaker was busy in cable communications with his bankers and investment houses.

There is a rule against a jockey making himself a late scratch except for illness, but a one-day suspension and $200 fine for saddle tycoons is a laugh.

The Power Of Faith

By Howard Brodie

When he was approaching 50, Leo Tolstoy, one of the greatest writers in the history of literature, felt an emptiness within him. He was famous, wealthy, titled, happily married and a proud father, yet he said: "Why wish for anything, or do anything? Is there any meaning in life?"

This profound melancholy lasted for about three years, but the answer Tolstoy found to his question changed his life. He discovered "those clear simple truths common to all men . . . the Spirit of God lives in man and the practical rule . . . that man should act towards others as he wishes others to act towards himself . . . God is a Spirit whose image lives in us, the power of which we can increase by our conduct . . . and all that naturally follows a peaceful, friendly, happy life would come about for humanity . . ."

Tolstoy renounced his title, and began his work to relieve the oppressed. He crusaded for the rights of peasants, protested the oppression of minorities, and opposed capital punishment and the use of physical force. All that remained of his old ways of living were his tremendous literary contributions.

Every morning in solitude, Tolstoy prayed. He wrote, "My prayer is like this . . . 'Who so abideth in love abideth in God, and God in him . . . if we love one another . . . His love is fulfilled in us . . . Brethren, let us love one another, for God is love'."

Counselor Staff Aids Strikers

By Victor Riesel

This is being written en route west through "Milltown" America in quest of an answer to the one trigger-quick query on the steel crisis: How have half a million families survived almost four months without pay checks?

Victor Riesel

Almost immediately you find the answer in a nearly unknown labor "relief" servce built around a network of some 60,000 specially trained union "counselors." They have been trained, sometimes in day and night shifts, by Leo Perlis' AFL-CIO Community Services Committee ever since the 1945 General Motors strike in Detroit.

They now sit at desks in steel locals and strike headquarters. They deal in everything, all problems from supplying food or a winter coat for a kid to staving off alimony payments and alcoholism.

Typical is a report which came across "chief counselor" Perlis' desk the other day in his New York headquarters. It was from Birmingham, Ala.

"Persons in need of assistance are not yet receiving any public aid," came word from the city of the big Tennessee Coal and Iron subsidiary of U.S. Steel.

"But from voluntary aid comes school lunches, books, shoes, coal for cooking and heating and outright grocery orders." In that city the steel strikers are helped by some 75 specialists.

IN PITTSBURGH there are several hundred counselors. In Chicago "at least 1,000." In Los Angeles "a couple of thousand." In Detroit "some 2,000." These are not all steel union people but they all pitch in when needed.

The men are trained not only to answer questions but to spot a need before a striker or his wife talks about it. Once the need is dug out of a frequently shy striker, the counselor goes to the proper agency.

On this trip I talked to a reporter from Radio Liberty which broadcasts to Iron Curtain countries. He was amazed when it was pointed out that none of the great steel corporations ever try to pressure public or private agencies or institutions against aid to the strikers.

THUS UNION ADVISERS turn to banks or realty companies when evictions are threatened or to utilities when light and gas bills can't be paid or to auto finance companies, banks and local merchants.

I have not heard of a single eviction, foreclosure or repossession of a car or refrigerator during this strike.

But there are other problems besides rent and installments, though this is the mortgaged age.

In May, the people of this country owed 46 billion dollars. The counselors get eye glasses, medical care, surgery and hospitalization for those who need them.

Here's how it worked in one community:

One of the first moves after the strike began was to approach the chain store grocery in this particular midwest town.

Arrangements were made for the food store to honor food vouchers. Then $8,425 worth of these vouchers were distributed to needy strikers, who then could go and buy what they wanted. Soup kitchens were also set up.

Though there was a strike the workers still ran their autos. So gasoline and car checks were provided.

At least 1,500 gallons of gas were distributed at a cost of $483.50. Another $50 bought 220 bus tickets. Seven persons needed fuel, so $160.66 was spent out of the strike fund.

FOURTEEN STRIKERS or members of their families needed medical attention: nine of them needed drugs, five had Blue Cross problems. This cost a total of $40.49 mostly for drugs.

Four members were delinquent in their taxes, state and realty. Moratoriums were obtained for the members from the state and city.

So it goes through America's mill towns, sometimes it's surplus food; sometimes, as with three members of this particular local, it's alimony payment extensions. Problems are normal because life is normal.

The answer to the quest is that Karl Marx was wrong and the union counselors are right on the spot.

Through The Years

THIRTY YEARS AGO — Miss Edna M. Lane was appointed superintendent of nurses at City Hospital and Miss Ruth Burrell was named dietitican.

Savings in the Chester public schools for October totaled $653.

Improvements costing about $5,000 were made at the post office here.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — D. W. McGraw was named president by the WPA Adult Blind Class in the mayor's chambers of City Hall.

Tom Scott was elected president of the newly-organized motorcycle club at the home of Theodore Appleby on Huston Ave.

A 22-point program for reducing traffic hazzards in East Liverpool was submitted to the Citizens Safety Council.

TEN YEARS AGO — Postmaster Claude Mills of Newell announced that mail service to homes would be established in Newell sometime in November.

An all-day sewing group was organized by women by the St. Aloysius Catholic Church of the East Liverpool Deanery of the National Council of Catholic Women.

Odd Facts

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police comprises over 3,000 men and equipment which ranges from dog sleds and horses to ships and planes. It was founded in 1873 with 300 men, was called the Northwest Mounted Police, and was concerned with quelling Indian uprisings and controlling the Far West. In 1904 it became the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, and in 1920 it assumed its present name.

Ancient Routes

United Nations experts have agreed on a plan to convert 7,000 miles of ancient caravan routes into a modern continental highway system for Asia.

The project is based on a study begun in 1955 of the possibilities of linking by road all the countries between Iran and Vjetnam. It would make use of the great caravan routes of history, many of which have vanished and can be traced only by a careful study of ancient records.

The project has been approved by the highway subcommittee of the U.N. economic commission for the Far East. Details of the project have just been reported by the Paris office of the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO).

The caravan routes which are to be revived are the same ones Marco Polo used in his explorations of Southern Asia. Alexander the Great, Genghis Khan and Tamerlane traveled them with their armies of conquest.

The caravan routes also were the great trade links of the ancient world, used to bring silk, jade and spices from the Orient to Europe. The famous "silk road" ran from Chungking in China through Burma and North India to Delhi, and from there to Teheran and the Black Sea.

The U.N. project divides Asia into three highway regions. The first includes Vietnam, Cambodia, Laos, Thailand, Malaya and Burma. The second includes West Burma, East Pakistan, India, Ceylon and Nepal. The third includes West Pakistan, Afghanistan and Iran.

First priority, according to the UNESCO report, will be given to building the highway links needed to connect the existing road systems. Some countries already have begun work on this.

Everyone Is Loser

By David Lawrence

Strike Gains Termed Hollow Victories

U.S. Steel Corp. lost 31 million dollars in the third quarter of this year.

Bethlehem Steel Corp., the next largest, lost 38 million in the third quarter.

David Lawrence

Jones & Laughlin, the fourth largest steel producer reported a loss of 16 million.

Inland Steel reported a net loss of 7½ million.

Wheeling Steel reported a net loss of $4,263,000.

Lukens Steel reported a net loss of 3 million.

Those are the figures just announced and they add up to about 100 million dollars—but they do not tell the whole story.

For the government of the United States lost taxes equal to these amounts and foregoes as well the taxes on profits that would have been at least 200 million. Also, the Treasury lost far more in tax receipts usually collected from the many industries indirectly affected by the steel strike.

But the losses in wages to the workers are even larger than the deficits of the corporations involved in the strike. This, too, means a loss of taxes.

So the American people must continue to pay more taxes to meet these deficiencies and thus the hoped for day of a reduction in tax rates is postponed.

NOBODY GAINS by a strike and yet struggles arise periodically that are eventually ended by negotiation after which euphemistic statements are issued about victories won.

The truth is that every big strike is due to the failure of the processes of reason and a breakdown in the communication system between adversaries.

Sometimes union politics keeps a leader from making an agreement that he fears will make him unpopular with his constituency. Sometimes management hesitates to make a concession for fear that next year it will face a strike again as advantage is taken by the union to press later for further concessions.

Collective bargaining nowadays means that anything granted in a previous year is permanent and not subject to change.

So far as the public is concerned, it can hardly bring its influence to bear except through government and this, too, leads to settlements of strikes that are likely in the long run to do more harm than good.

In fact, today's strike in steel is largely the result of the mishandling of labor-management relations in the past with too much government pressure of the political sort that forced unsound settlements in order to get a resumption of production at almost any cost.

Today's impasse between the steel companies and the unions will not be solved overnight.

The Taft Hartley Act injunction when imposed will not necessarily bring a cooling off period or even a disposition toward conciliatory moves on either side.

THE FACT is that no machinery for settlement exists today in which both sides can have confidence. The spokesmen talk vaguely to each other but they know all along what are the basic issues and what must be done to get a settlement.

One thing that has to happen is an acceptance by the union leaders of the concept of change in working rules in the steel industry, just as they have had to be changed in other industries to meet the new conditions brought about by new machinery and equipment.

The subject is far too complex to be settled in the usual negotiations.

The employers have already gone a big distance in their offer to submit the issues to impartial arbitrators. This is a sensible approach. The mystery is why the union turned down this very significant concession.

For the working rules eventually must be arbitrated or else submitted to some kind of joint committee with power to make adjustments that both sides will show a willingness to adopt in some form.

The pressure on the companies with old equipment to modernize is greater than ever. Yet, the union is insisting on uniform rules for both those with new and old machinery.

Certainly some workers will be forced out of their present jobs but sensible plans to absorb them in other divisions of the industry would seem to be possible.

THE SITUATION is not very different from that which faces workers when plant operations are curtailed because of economic conditions.

Auto workers, for instance, who are innocent bystanders, are already being laid off due to shortage of steel.

Then there is the problem of mergers. The federal government, adhering strictly to anti-trust statutes, acts to prevent mergers. It is fighting the proposed merger between Bethlehem Steel and Youngstown Steel.

It doesn't make sense for the federal government, on the one hand, to frown on the employers who insist that unions must agree to changes in working rules and at the same time discourage the companies from making consolidations which would cut their costs and improve their efficiency.

Anti-trust laws are essential to the American system of free competition but they can hardly be maintained if big unions are allowed to operate monopolies that control labor costs.

The current steel strike has raised some fundamental issues that are not going to be solved merely by a compromise on wage rates. The conflict is broader and there will only be more and more strikes until the equities are clearly established and new machinery in factory operations is accepted for what it is—a means of cutting costs and assuring savings to the public as a whole.

Call It Progress

By Truman Twill

Like millions of others who had despaired of ever being curious again about new automobiles, I have been blotting up information about the new compact cars.

Revived curiosity like mine has given the auto industry a boost. Year in and year out, the industry had been coming out each year with revised and slightly revised designs that were always so different they finally seemed the same.

The question of whether there really was any difference was academic for many of us, because we had been priced out of the market for new cars anyway. We were in the warmed-over market.

The last new car I bought was before World War II. It lasted until four years after the war was over. Four cars have passed through my hands since then—all obsolete models, though two never had been driven before they came into my possession.

This is the background for a confession that I am curious as a cat about this new idea in automobiles—the compact idea. We are seeing only the beginning in 1959. The real thing is going to develop later.

And the dynamic force behind it is pretty funny, when you stop to think about it. Chances are you haven't stopped to think yet.

It's tax-gouging. It's the same motive that caused European cars to shrink in size, to get even with tax-gouging governments. In big, expansive free-wheeling America, we've declared war on tax-gougers.

Cars got bigger and bigger in the happy era when Americans could drive up to the gas pump with a couple bucks and fill the tank. They got bigger and bigger and bigger, until they were big enough to burst.

But what burst instead, was the people's tolerance of tax-gouging. Not only did taxes go up and up but the service durability of the commodity they were based on kept going down.

Miles per gallon of gas kept dwindling.

Engines designed to go 120 miles an hour on highways with speed limits of 60 were prodigiously wasteful of oil as well as gas.

Tires kept getting costlier as they got bigger and had to be made better to withstand the terrific punishment of sooper-dooper engines and neck-cracking brakes.

Insurance and repair rates went sky-high. The old idea that mass production bestowed benefits on the customer went sky-high too. Cars got more expensive.

Compact cars from Europe, where taxpayers had been fighting back for a generation, drew attention. Europeans long ago realized they couldn't afford to buy and operate big automobiles. Their taxgougers had goosed the price of gas so high it had to be bought and used like high-grade milk for the baby. Taxes had whacked up the price of cars to far that ownership was a status symbol.

It would be lovely to think that here in the Land of the Free everything moves endlessly onward and upward — infinitely improvable. It doesn't. Sometimes we chase our tails, and call it progress. We're tail-chasing on compact cars.

They're essentially a return to the fundamental transportation we started with — and if we can get even with tax-gougers by going back to smaller engines, less weight, shorter wheelbase and cheaper maintenance we'll settle for scooters — those of us, that is, who must own and operate our transportation outright, with no tax deduction, no discount, no nothing — just our own cash.

RE-ELECT
J. NEIL
McINTOSH
ST. CLAIR TOWNSHIP
CLERK

Fully qualified by experience and training. Keeping books for a political subdivision, is much different from keeping books for a private concern. Each session of the Ohio State Legislature, either passes new laws or amends existing laws, governing the spending of tax monies. An experienced Township Clerk knows the existing laws and acquaints himself with the new ones as soon as they are enacted. Mr. McIntosh takes three days schooling in Columbus after each session of the State Legislature, where he has all new laws pertaining to Township Government explained to him. Mr. McIntosh is also a member of the Executive Committee of the Ohio State Association of Township Trustees and Clerks, and they are in every session of the Legislature, fighting to preserve Local Self Government, and he would like very much to be re-elected, so he can continue to fight for it. Be sure and vote on election day, and vote for J. Neil McIntosh for St. Clair Township Clerk so we can profit from his training and experience. Thank You.

Ministers Set Reformation Vesper Hour

East Liverpool Protestants will unite in a Reformation Sunday vesper hour at the Trinity United Presbyterian Church tomorrow at 4 p. m. The Ministerial Association will sponsor the observance, the first in the city in five years.

Dr. John Calvin Reid, Ph.D., D.D., senior minister of the large First United Presbyterian Church at Mt. Lebanon, will be the speaker. His subject will be "Heritage and Responsibility."

Dr. Reid, born in Charlotte, N. C., received his degrees from Erskine College and the Pittsburgh-Xenia Theological Seminary.

Under a scholarship award, he studied in Edinburg, in Scotland, and Oxford, England, which led to a Th.M. degree from the Pittsburgh seminary.

Special study in New Testament Greek won him a Ph.D. degree from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville, Ky., and Muskingum College, and Tarkio (Mo.) College awarded him an honorary D.D.

He is the author of six books. Dr. Reid's pastorates included Louisville, Butler, Pa., and Columbus, Ga. He came to the Mt. Lebanon church in 1945.

He has served as associate editor of the "The United Presbyterian" and "The Presbyterian Outlook." In May 1958, he was elected vice moderator of the United Presbyterian Church in the USA.

The order of worship will be adapted from the Strasbourg Liturgy of 1537-1539. John Calvin first heard of this service in Strasbourg in Germany and introduced it in Geneva in 1542. After 1560, the same service was used in Scotland by John Knox.

The Rev. M. Rudolph Miller, pastor of the Trinity church, will preside and the Trinity Choir will sing.

The Rev. James E. Hunton of the First Church of the Nazarene will read the Scriptures; the Rev. C. Howard Canon, Oakland Free Methodist Church and president of the association, will offer prayer; the Rev. L. R. Garrett, new pastor of the Sheridan African Methodist Episcopal Church, will lead the affirmation of faith, and John N. Mostoller, minister of the First Church of Christ, will direct the worship with offerings.

Confident Living

Dr. Norman Vincent Peale

The Principles Of Success

I spent an evening not too long ago with a successful young man of ninety, Sebastian S. Kresge, who founded the S. S. Kresge chain of stores. He asked me my opinion of a certain political issue that had just hit the headlines. I hadn't yet read about it and so I replied, "Why, I'm sorry Mr. Kresge, I don't know anything about it."

Dr. Peale

"What's the matter with you?" he asked smilingly. "Don't you keep up with current events?"

—:—

IT WAS obvious that, even at ninety, Mr. Kresge was up-to-date and attuned to the issues of the day. He's alive. What's ninety years to a man like that?

I asked him how he kept his zest for life and he told me simply that he gets it from "waiting on the Lord." His reference was to the Bible passage, "They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk and not faint."

I thought about that when a man wrote to me recently and asked if I could recommend any books corresponding to the Horatio Alger books on which he grew up. This series of books for boys was dedicated to helping boys amount to something.

The books had much to do with developing a breed of men in America who did things, who succeeded in life despite obstacles. He said his son had a soft, defeatist attitude, and he wanted to give him something to read that would help him make a man of himself.

I recommended Conrad Hilton's book "Be My Guest." This is a kind of modern Horatio Alger story. Mr. Hilton writes that he owes his victories over great adversities and his successes in the hotel business to two people, his mother and his father.

Whenever any trouble came, his mother would say to him, "Connie, pray your way through it and never give up."

—:—

AT ONE point, when he was broke and hundreds of thousands of dollars in debt, his mother told him, "I've saved two thousand dollars I want to invest in your business." He advised her not to endanger her savings in this way. But she insisted. "Don't you ever give up," she told him. "I believe in you. Keep on praying."

His father, who was equally hard-headed, added another important word of advice. "Work. Just keep on working; don't stop trying," was his advice.

Two vital things: pray and work. Tie them together and never give them up. That is what real American mothers and American fathers have been teaching American boys and girls though the years — to pray and to work and to stand up to things.

Waiting on the Lord. Praying. Working. Standing up to things. These are the principles of success — success in business and success in life. S. S. Krege and Conrad Hilton have been spectacular successes.

But hundreds of thousands of other people who have followed these very same principles also have achieved success, success perhaps not as spectacular, but nevertheless success that has brought joy and happiness to them and their loved ones.

Have you instilled these principles of successful living in your own life? Have you discovered that when you wait upon the Lord, you can run and not grow weary; walk and not faint?

Have you learned to count on the guidance that prayer can bring you? Have you learned how to keep on working until what you work for comes to you? And, most important, have you learned to stand up to your problems and not be defeated by them?

If you can do these things, you will have learned the principles of success.

This is the nursery of a large metropolitan hospital. Six times a day these precious bundles visit their happy mamas. And every night their proud papas gape at them through the glass. Nurses watch over them constantly. Doctors examine them daily.

But the statistics in the files of the police department cast a black shadow over this innocent scene. For one of these babies is J.D.

J.D. is short for a juvenile delinquent. And from police records and census figures we can estimate the proportion of new-born infants who will become juvenile delinquents in ten to twenty years. The one factor that threatens the accuracy of our calculations is that juvenile delinquency is increasing.

There are just two ways to deal with the problem. One is to enlarge our jails. The other is to give every child's spiritual well-being the same thorough attention that this hospital gives his physical well-being.

Is yours a church-going family? Is yours a religious home?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Nancy Williams Becomes Bride Of Frank E. Beresic

A lace handkerchief, 57 years old, from Brussels, Belgium was carried by Miss Nancy Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Williams of Midland, when she became the bride of Frank E. Beresic, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Beresic of Ohio View, in a ceremony last Saturday. The handkerchief was given to her by her aunt, Mrs. Lottie Houth, 74, of Midland, who received it as a gift in Belgium when she was 17.

The marriage was solemnized in Presentation Catholic Church in Midland with a Nuptial High Mass. Fr. John Corbett read the double-ring rites before the altar banked with ferns and palms.

Mrs. John Nuzzo of Midland presented a recital of traditional nuptial melodies and accompanied the Boys' Choir during Mass.

The bride's gown was fashioned of Duponi silk and featured a scoop neckline, sculptured bodice and long, tapered sleeves. The bouffant skirt was accented with alternating pouffs of silk and lace caught at intervals by lace medallions and ending in a brush train. A fingertip veil of illusion was caught to a pillbox headpiece of matching lace.

A white orchid was posed on the prayer book that she carried. The bride's father gave her in marriage. All the familiar traditions were observed.

Miss Mary Lou Bertovic of New York, maid of honor, was gowned in a floor-length frock of sheer coral nylon styled with strapless bodice with detachable sleeves. Tier - on - tier ruffles fashioned the bouffant skirt. A green velvet bow trimmed the waistline and back. A nose veil of matching color was held in place by a Dior bow. A white velvet muff completed her ensemble.

Emerald green gowns identical to that of the maid of honor were worn by bridesmaids, Misses Janet Basar of Monaca and Lenore Balint and Patricia White of Midland.

Richard Williams, the bride's brother, served as best man. James Lambert of Industry, John Sullivan of Vanport and Joseph Cvetic of Ohio View were ushers.

The parents of the couple entertained 300 guests at a reception in Deramo's Restaurant in the evening. A four - tiered cake surrounded by arrangements of fall flowers and lighted tapers decorated the buffet table.

The bridal party and immediate families were guests at a wedding dinner given by the bride's parents in the restaurant following the ceremony.

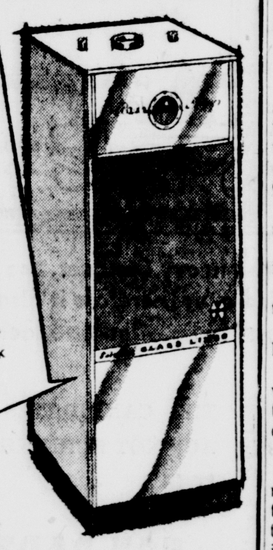

Aides were Mrs. Elizabeth DiMaggio, Mrs. John Beggs, Mrs. Paul Botts, Mrs. Leo Marciniak, Mrs. Thomas Toplak, Mrs. Joseph Krasevatz and Mrs. John Siranovich.

The couple, both graduates of Midland High School, will be at home in Ohio View next week following a honeymoon motor trip through the New England States.

New Benefits For Jobless

This is the last of a series of articles, prepared for The Review by the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation (BUC), outlining the principal changes in Ohio's Unemployment Compensation Law.

After the claimant has remained unemployed for a full calendar week (Sunday through Saturday), he reports in the following week on the day and hour assigned to him to file a claim.

Benefits re paid on the assumption that the claimant is a part of the labor market, that he normally works, and that he is ready and available to accept suitable work. Therefore, to have his claim allowed, he must show that he is able to work, ready and available for work, unable to obtain work and seeking work as the law requires. The claimant may ask:

Q. Does this rule apply to every claimant in the same way?

A. The law recognizes that the employment problems of each claimant may be different. The following factors are considered in determining each weekly claim:

1. What are your chances for returning to your old job?

2. Which method do you normally use to obtain work?

3. How long have you been unemployed?

4. What are the conditions of employment and unemployment in your community?

Q. Am I always notified of every Bureau determination?

A. Yes, every determination by the bureau, whether it involves your initial application or a later claim, is fully stated and explained in a Notice sent you by mail.

Q. Do I have the right to protest a determination?

A. Yes, if you are dissatisfied with any determination and do not think it is justified by the facts, you may request the Administrator to reconsider his determination. To do this, however, you must file your protest within ten days of the mailing date shown on every notice.

If the reader happens to be a claimant and has further questions to ask regarding his claim, it is suggested that he take them to the local BUC office where his claim is filed.

Butterflies taste with their legs, and their taste is many times more sensitive than that of the human tongue in detecting the sweetness of sugar.

Chester Girl Scouts Conduct Juliette Low Memorial Rites

A memorial service for Juliette Low, founder of Girl Scouts, was conducted by Senior Troop 79 at a meeting Thursday night at the Chester Westminster United Presbyterian Church.

Miss Linda Carpenter, Juliette Low chairman, lighted a candle for each of the two parts of the Girl Scout Promise. She then lighted 10 candles for each of the laws as they were read by Miss Betsy Hobbs. The candles were mounted on a large, gold Girl Scout trefoil.

Mrs. Eugene Seeley, leader, read a poem, "To Juliette Low," following the Juliette Low World Friendship fund collection. The troop then sang "Our Chalet," the song of the hostel maintained by the friendship fund for Girl Scouts of the world in Switzerland.

Dr. Carl A. Ciccarelli of Chester was guest speaker. He talked on the relation of foot health to good grooming and Dr. Edith Gilmore of East Liverpool talked on health in relation to good grooming. Both conducted a question - and - answer period.

Miss Carpenter, who also is president of the troop, reported that the Daisy Ring Patrol had decorated the Dale Allison Insurance office window to depict the 100th anniversary of the Red Cross as a community project.

She also announced Miss Mary Alice Mackall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Mackall of Park Pl., was selected winner of a Keep America Beautiful slogan contest. Miss Mackall, a member of Brownie Troop 61, entered the slogan, "Chester Is No Trash Can." Posters depicting the slogan were distributed to be placed in store windows the coming week.

Miss Seeley announced the three older patrols will meet at her home Nov. 12 at 7 p. m. to plan for a weekend camp at Dixonville Nov. 20. The meeting was closed with the pledge to the flag.

Mrs. Seeley was assisted by Mrs. Frank Reed and Mrs. Wesley Hobbs, co - leaders. The next meeting will be Thursday at 7 p. m. at the church.

Child Injured By Car While Halloweening

A young Halloween celebrant is in City Hospital today with injuries suffered when struck by a car on E. 3rd St. early Friday night while making his "trick-or-treat" rounds.

James Bennett, 6, son of Mrs. Bonnie Bennett, 322 Broadway, is in "fairly good" condition with lacerations of the left side of the head and the right knee.

Franklin W. Gall, 23, of Hanoverton R. D. 1 told police he was headed west about 20 miles an hour near the B'Nai Jacob Synagogue when the young boy ran into the side of his car while crossing the street. He took the child to the hospital where he was admitted at 6:50 p. m.

An East End motorist was charged with leaving the scene of an accident after his car struck a police cruiser early this morning.

Lewis E. Hood, 1929 Michigan Ave., was fined $25 and costs by Municipal Judge George L. Brokaw on the charge filed by Patrolman S. E. Hayes.

The officer said he was headed west on Pennsylvania Ave. near Oakland Ave. in the 1959 cruiser about 3:30 a. m. when Hood veered across the center line, struck the cruiser and continued on his way.

Patrolman Hayes said he stopped, turned around and overtook Hood on upper Ohio Ave. The front bumper of the cruiser was scratched and the left front fender on Hood's car was dented, police said.

The front end of a 1959 sedan owned by Edward L. Rayle of Henry Ave. was demolished when it struck a utility pole Friday night on Dresden Ave. near W. 8th St.

Rayle told officers he had parked along the curb and emerged from a nearby tavern to see the car rolling down the sidwalk and crossing the W. 8th St. intersection before striking the pole. There was no damage to the pole, police said.

A mishap at 5:40 p. m. yesterday at E. 4th and Elm Sts. involved an eastbound car operated by Annie Smith, 42, of 351 Penn Ave., Midland, and a 1952 sedan driven by Thomas J. Renner, 21, of 122½ W. 4th St.

Renner told police he came out of Elm St. and turned onto E. 4th St. and struck the other car, owned jointly by Anna Smith and Clarence Gilmore, 21 5th St., Midland.

employment compensation, alimony and the first $100 received in property rentals.

As in the former ordinance, a withholding feature similar to the federal law would take care of the tax payments for persons employed in East Liverpool. Those employed outside the city would be required to file individual returns. In actual practice last year, however, most Chester and Newell potteries withheld the tax for employes who filed written requests, avoiding the necessity for many individual returns.

Last year's proposal—an initiative ordinance — was a question of retaining or rejecting a tax that already had been in effect nearly six months. Because the emergency clause in the original legislation barred a referendum, Trades Council filed an initiative ordinance to repeal the tax ordinance.

The proposition on the ballot next Tuesday is a referendum, made possible by the fact Council did not include an emergency clause in order that no tax would be collected pending a decision at the polls.

Because of the wording of last year's proposal, a "no" vote actually meant "yes" in favor of the tax and a "yes" vote meant "no" —against the tax.

But there is no such complicated verbiage involved in the issue Tuesday. A "yes" vote will mean just that — in favor of the tax— and a "no" vote will be counted for repeal of the measure.

To get a ballot place, Trades Council was required to get a minimum of 876 signatures. It obtained 1,833 signatures, almost 1,000 over the required number.

VETERAN DRIVER CITED. J. W. Jud English, left, director of sales and service for the Columbiana County Motor Club, made the presentation. Barrett has been a member of the local AAA for 31 years.

Chiropodists In Ohio May Advertise Prices

CLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Chiropodists can advertise their prices for professional services, starting Monday, when a new Ohio law becomes effective.

The statute repeals a ban against such advertising by those licensed to treat foot ailments.

The new law also prohibits rule-making agencies from issuing regulations, after the effective date, that would limit the right of any person to advertise.

Existing rules, such as those by the Liquor Department, would not be affected, officials explained. Ohio is a liquor monopoly state.

Another provision authorizes every state agency with licensing and rule-making powers to suspend the licenses of those under their jurisdiction following conviction for false or fraudulent advertising.

Boy Killed By Car

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Robert E. Porter II, 8, of Zanesville, was struck and killed by a car north of here on Ohio 77 Friday night. Sheriff's deputies said the boy was out for trick-or-treat night and was dressed in a dark blue costume. The driver was not held.

Refrigerator Leak Among Fire Calls

A refrigerator leaking refrigerant was removed from a W. 4th St. home in one of four calls answered Friday by city firemen.

Firemen had to use oxygen masks to enter the home of Ray Adams, 138 W. 4th St., to remove the refrigerator yesterday at 5:40 p. m.

An exhaust fan from the emergency truck was then used for 30 minutes to clear the home of fumes, firemen said.

Firemen were called to W. 8th St. yesterday morning at 10:30 when the emergency brake band on a 1953 sedan owned by Robert Disch, 904 Avondale St., overheated and caught fire. A booster line was used to extinguish the blaze.

A report of gasoline fumes in the cellar of the home of W. A. Husted, 1830 Harvey Ave., was investigated about noon yesterday.

Firemen investigated a complaint of smoke from buring cars at the Berman Iron & Steel Co. on W. 4th St. yesterday afternoon. The owner was issued a warning about burning without a permit, firemen said.

City Man Posts Bond In Chester Accident

An East Liverpool R. D. 2 motorist posted a $15.50 bond today for a hearing Wednesday at 7 p.m. before Chester Mayor Burton Ward on charges of failing to have his car under control.

According to police, Slider, who was headed east on Carolina Ave., had stopped for the traffic light at Carolina Ave. and 4th St., when McKnight hit the rear of his 1959 sedan.

Total damage for both cars was estimated at $180.

No Increase In Tax Rate

You are asked to vote for a tax levy of three-fourths of a mill for the City Hospital.

How much of an expense does that mean?

It will cost you only 75c for every $1,000 of valuation to have in your own town, ready for every need and emergency, modern hospital facilities.

Renewal of the Hospital Tax Levy will not increase your current tax rate.

THE MAYOR SAYS:

TO THE VOTERS OF EAST LIVERPOOL:

Continued efficient and effective operation of the East Liverpool City Hospital is as vital to the life and welfare of all our citizens as police, fire, and other health and safety services.

In view of rising costs of supplies and services used by the Hospital, it would be impossible to continue the Hospital's satisfactory operation if there should be any reduction in the amount of funds available to it. Such a reduction in income will occur if the present 3/4-mill Hospital Levy is not renewed at the November 3, 1959, election.

By voting FOR this levy you will Not increase your present tax bill; you will simply be continuing an already existing tax that will expire unless you vote to renew it.

Cordially,

Frederick P. Lawrence,
Mayor

Facts About the City Hospital

1—283,035 patients were treated since the hospital was opened.

2—8,973 patients in 1958, an increase of 747% in past forty years.

East Liverpool Voters Will Be Given These Ballots

Mayor, Judge Contests Wait Tuesday Vote

War I. He returned after the war and resumed his practice. He was a candidate for the judge's seat six years ago.

Atty. Chertoff has spent much of his career in public office. During 1936 and 1937, he served in the relief department here and supervised recodification of city ordinances. He became assistant county prosecuting attorney in 1940. In 1942, he joined the Office of Price Administration in Washington and later was shifted to Pittsburgh, where he served as chief enforcement attorney. Then he became special assistant district attorney for Western Pennsylvania.

2 Judge Aspirants Filed As Independents

Both Judge Brokaw and Atty. Foulks filed as independent candidates, bypassing the primaries. Atty. Chertoff entered as a Democrat, but was given a certificate of nomination automatically under the Ohio "no contest" law.

The judicial district is comprised of East Liverpool and Liverpool Township. The contest will be decided in 37 precincts—32 in the city and 5 in the township.

In eight city offices, GOP incumbents are seeking new terms. Regardless of the vote Tuesday, Council will have two newcomers next year in seats in which the incumbents are not seeking re-election.

There is only one incumbent Democrat in the city's official family — Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper — and he is assured of a new term for lack of oppositon.

Council President B. E. Warner, Republican, is running for a second term, aligned against Charles N. Edwards, veteran Mulberry St. barber who is the Democratic nominee. Warner is manager of the Milligan and Hardware Supply Co. store.

3 GOP Veterans Seeking Council Posts

Three veteran Republican members are seeking new terms as councilmen - at - large. They are George E. Willshaw, chairman of the finance committee; Robert W. Sample Jr., head of the street committee, and A. Stanley Kidder, chairman of the ordinance committee. Willshaw is seeking a fourth term, Sample is running for his fifth and Kidder seeks his second term at-large, having served previously in the First Ward.

In the May primaries, the three GOP incumbents were renominated in a field of five.

Democratic at-large aspirants are: Donald Hancock of Monaca St., an employe of the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co.; John A. Melvin of St. Clair Ave., co-owner of J. K. Drugs, Inc., and Clinton R. Seevers of Edgewood Ave., a veteran potter and former Fourth Ward councilman.

The Democratic nominees topped a six-man field in the primaries.

Gallimore, Dawson Run For New Terms

The GOP slate also lists Auditor H. J. Gallimore of Smithfield St., a retired mail-carrier, who is seeking his second full term, and Treasurer Bert A. Dawson of Lisbon St., dean of boys at the high school, who is running for a ninth term.

Lawrence C. Applegate of St. George St., a pottery warehouseman, is the Democratic candidate for auditor. Owen D. Kountz, 1271 Erie St., a Mulberry St. grocer, is the party's treasurer aspirant.

For the first time in several years, East Liverpool will have a contest for Board of Education, with three of the five seats at stake.

The candidates are: James Lowe of Gilson Ave., who is completing his sixth year; C. Walter Ashbaugh of Highland Colony and James B. Moss of W. 9th St., also incumbents, and Judson W. Allison of Wyoming Ave., a salesman.

2nd Terms Sought For Lowe And Moss

Lowe, an employe of the Patterson Foundry & Machine Co., served two years of an unexpired term and then was elected to his present term. Moss, a potter, also is seeking a second term. He is active in the Trades and Labor Council and the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters.

Ashbaugh is secretary - treasurer of the S. C. Williams Co., which produces corrugated cardboard containers. He is seeking his second term in the current series, although he served previously on the board many years ago.

Allison is an assistant supervisor in the Tri-State area for the Keebler Biscuit Co. He is married and the father of two daughters. He is a member of the Pleasant Heights Home and School Association, the Citizens Committee for Better Schools and the Blue and White Nonpareil Club. He attends Trinity United Presbyterian Church.

The bold-over board members are Leo C. Lawrence and Samuel W. Brown. Terms are for four years. In addition to East Livrpool, the school district includes all of Liverpool Township and three precincts in St. Clair Township — Glenmoor, West and Southwest.

With two incumbents out of the running, new Council members will be elected in the First and Third wards. Councilman H. A. Tullis of the First Ward pulled out to run unsuccessfully for the GOP nomination for Council president in the primaries and Councilman W. E. Kaiser, also a Republican, did not file for a second term in the Third Ward.

Barrett And Cooper Opposed In First Ward

The First Ward candidates are John W. Barrett of Ohio Ave., a Republican, and Clifford J. Cooper of St. George St., Democrat. Barrett is a retired employment supervisor at Crucible. Cooper is an employe of the Columbiana branch of the Midway Oil Co.

In the Third Ward, the candidates are William T. Kind of St. Clair Ave., Republican, and Donald E. Smith of Woodbine Ave., Democrat. A veteran coal dealer, Kind held the same Council seat in 1956-57. Smith is employed in the transportation department at Crucible.

William Y. Orr, Republican, the incumbent Second Ward councilman, is seeking a fourth term, opposed by John F. Kelly, 1029 Vine St., a hot strip mill heater at Crucible who is the Democratic nominee. Orr resides on Princeton Ave. and is employed by the Moore Furniture Co. He heads the Council franchise committee.

Councilman Samuel B. Webber of the Fourth Ward, Republican, is seeking a second term, aligned against Robert B. Laughlin of W. 2nd St., a potter who won the Democratic nomination. Webber resides on Idaho Ave. and is employed by Crucible.

Cooper was assured of a new term in the primaries, when he defeated Atty. Lawrence W. Smith Jr. in the Democratic race for solicitor. No Republican filed for solicitor, leaving Cooper as the only unopposed candidate on either ticket in the general election.

South Dakota is the only state that does not require an eye test for a driver's license.

INCOME TAX QUESTION. The complicated verbiage on the ballot above boils down to this question: Do East Liverpool voters want to pay a tax of 60 cents on each $100 of income to help finance major municipal improvements and increase present services? It also would impose the tax on earnings of business and industry and the fees of professional men, affecting non-residents as well as residents. A simple "yes" or "no" vote means just that—in favor of putting the tax ordinance into effect or discarding it.

Midland Fights Back To Tie New Brighton Eleven, 13-13

Long Touchdown Pass Knots Game

By CHUCK CRONIN
Review Sports Writer

Underdog New Brighton, a winner only once this season, played the role of a spoiler Friday night in battling Midland High School's Leopards to a 13-13 tie.

Coach John Petchel's once-beaten Leopards had to strike twice for a second-half touchdowns to pull from behind and gain the deadlock with their smaller but fired-up opponents.

Though losing prestige, the Leopards still hold command of the Midwestern Conference Class A title with a 4-0-1 record and can retain the crown by defeating Freedom in their final game of the season next week.

—:—

NEW BRIGHTON'S Lions, with only a 6-0 decision over Rochester to their credit in six games, shocked the "Parents Night" crowd of less than 2,000 by scoring a touchdown in the opening minutes and then scoring another in the second quarter for a 13-0 halftime lead.

Midland had been an overwhelming favorite to sweep the conference clash by virtue of superior manpower, a 6-1 record and the advantage of playing at home.

But New Brighton had other ideas and nearly pulled the second upset over Midland in two years. The Lions bumped Midland last season, 13-7, in a game billed as just another outing for the Leopards.

Thrills were few, but Midland scored dramatically in the fourth quarter on a long pass play that tied the game, 13-13.

Behind, 13-7 at the outset of the final period, Quarterback Ken Russell threw a tremendous pass to halfback Rudy Krivoshia in an 86-yard operation to inject new life into the Leopards.

KRIVOSHIA pulled in the pass on the midfield stripe after getting behind a New Brighton defender and scampered into the end zone to tie the score.

An attempted rush by halfback Bill White for the tie-breaking conversion was short and preserved what must be called a "moral victory" for the New Brighton eleven.

Stunned by New Brighton's surprising show of touchdown potency in the first half, Midland moved back into contention in the third quarter by moving 38 yards in nine plays to score.

Russell, who received little pass protection the entire game, plunged over from one foot out to climax the march, which had started when Gene Gerra intercepted a New Brighton pass and returned to the Lions' 38-yard line.

Big Movie Smith, Midland's bruising 200-pound fullback, turned in a heroic effort in his team's lone scoring march and broke away for a crucial 11-yard run which enabled Midland to keep possession during the drive.

RUSSELL, a clever runner and strong - armed, was kept under pressure on each pass attempt but came through with the big one to Krivoshia in a display of coolness under fire.

He threw to end Gene Lake from a fake kick formation for Midland's lone conversion after the first touchdown. Lake cut sharply to the left and made a splendid catch of the ball.

New Brighton's line outcharged the Midland forward wall at times, but generally took a hard pounding in trying to bring down "Big Movie." "Gang tackling" proved to be the only solution.

Smith played a prominent role in a 75-yard drive of the Leopards in the second period that was halted on the New Brighton 5-yard line.

New Brighton's Joe Allison set up his team's first touchdown by returning the opening kickoff 75 yards to the Midland 19, where he was downed in a desperate lunge by a Midland defender.

Three line bucks carried to the one-yard line, from where Allison scored on an off-tackle slant. Right guard Frank D'Eramo of Midland broke through and blocked the attempted placement.

Allison again scored in the second period on a short buck following recovery of a Midland fumble. Campbell booted the conversion.

Seniors on the Midland squad and parents of all the players were introduced prior to the opening kickoff. The game was Midland's final home appearance of the 1959 season.

First downs favored New Brighton, 11 to 9.

7,000 Due At Potter-Central Duel Tonight

JOE POLESHAW
His Passing Looms Big Threat To ELHS.

Mackall-Polshaw Duel Is Expected

Down Steubenville way, the East Liverpool-Steubenville Central contest is rated "even", with 7,000 fans expected to sit in on the top game in Ohio tonight. Kickoff time is 8 at Harding Stadium.

At stake is an unblemished record, a five-game winning streak and a chance to remain among Ohio's top ten teams.

Central has the unblemished record, having rolled over six straight opponents. The Potters will take the field sporting a five - game winning streak.

Both teams will be out to protect their state rating. The Potters are ranked eighth in the Associated Press poll and the Crusaders are only one notch behind in ninth.

—:—

THE GAME is expected to develop into a battle between two of the top quarterbacks in Ohio.

Central has been depending on the accurate throwing arm of Joe Polshaw, a rangy 185-pound signal caller, who has thrown at least one touchdown pass in each Central victory this season.

Polshaw has tossed seven touchdown passes and has scored five TD's himself.

East Liverpool will be counting on the fine all-around ability of Bob Mackall, the leading scorer in Eastern Ohio. The Potter quarterback has scored at least one touchdown in each game this season and shows a total of 12 TD's. He has been averaging a little over 6 yards per carry.

Polshaw's favorite target this season has been John Kenny, who plays left end for the Crusaders.

THE POTTERS will have to concentrate on breaking up this combination along with the running of halfbacks Brian Moore (170) and Jerry France, a shifty 135-pounder.

The big difference into tonight's game could be the line play. Central enters the game averaging close to 20 pounds heavier per man.

Venditti calls Steubenville the biggest team that East Liverpool has faced this season.

Central's string of six victories include an 18-7 win over Columbus Aquinas; Struthers, 32-8; Wheeling Central, 32-20; Weirton, 6-0; Bellaire St. John's, 32-14, and last week Cincinnati Elder, 20-8.

Coach John Baroni has made one change in the starting lineup for tonight. Joe D'Aurora, a 145-pounder, will start at right end in place of Dave France.

Venditti indicated that East Liverpool's lineup will remain almost the same as last week. Only two spots are a question mark.

—:—

THE BATTLE is still on for the tackle job between Craig Burbick, Skip Hall and Bruce "Big Mama" Reynolds. Two of these three will be in the starting lineup tonight.

Venditti also pointed out that Charlie Barnhouse is pressing Gary Montgomery for the starting job at center and is scheduled to see some action tonight.

The remainder of the lineup shows Mackall at quarterback, Dave Zelch and Henry Roach at halfbacks and John Goodballet at fullback.

Ron Prince and Tim Archer will be at ends, Burbick, Hall or Reynolds at tackles, Jim Bise and Charlie Davidson at guards and Montgomery probably will start at center.

Tonight will mark the ninth meeting between the two schools. Central has the edge with four victories. East Liverpool has won three. The 1945 game ended in a 6-6 tie.

Last year's contest went to Central 18-0, while the Potters won the last time in Harding Stadium, 21-14, two years ago.

The game at Steubenville marks the third straight week that East Liverpool has played on the road. The Potters traveled to Warren two weeks ago, when the game was shifted, and played at Struthers last week.

East Liverpool will return home for the next two weeks when Salem invades Patterson Field next Friday night and Toronto the week after that.

Stanton Local Loses In Last Minute, 14-6

IRONDALE — Stanton Local of Irondale saw its hopes for a 6-6 tie go out the window in the last minute when a touchdown combination of Dale Degenhardt and Jim Presley connected for the ninth time this season to give Brilliant a 14-6 win here Friday night.

Some 800 fans watched Irondale cling to a 6-0 margin for three periods before Brilliant tied the count at 6-6 early in the fourth quarter when Bob Rine plunged over from one yard out.

Brilliant missed its chance to go ahead when Irondale turned back a try for the extra point.

However, with only one minute remaining, Degenhardt heaved a touchdown pass to Presley on a play covering 30 yards. Bob Rine plunged for the two points and the 14-6 victory.

Irondale's lone touchdown, and a very big one at the time, was scored by Bob Mills, who bulled his way over from the one-yard line. The touchdown came after a 45-yard scoring drive.

The loss left Irondale with a .500 percentage, with three wins in six contests.

Marks Brothers Spark United In 48-6 Victory

United High School's Marks brothers—sophomore quarterback Larry and senior halfback Jerry —played starring roles as the Eagles crushed Mineral Ridge, 48-6, Friday night at the loser's gridiron in the Youngstown area.

Larry threw three touchdown passes, another for a conversion and scored a touchdown himself in a sparkling performance.

Jerry sped 78 yards for one score, took a lateral pass from Larry on a play that covered 75 yards and scored a third on a 7-yard run.

Coach Ray Russell's Eagles, tuning up for next week's battle with rival Salineville, won their fourth game against three defeats.

On the receiving end of Larry Marks' passes were Paul DeVille, Frank Shagnot and his brother Jerry.

Husky fullback Jim Summer scored on a 42-yard run.

Jerry Marks passed to Shagnot for one conversion, Dave Metzgar rushed for another and Summer made a third two-pointer on a plunge.

Tom Shuttleworth scored Mineral Ridge's lone touchdown on a two-yard plunge in the third quarter.

War Admiral Dies In South

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — War Admiral, the great thoroughbred who met his match in a two-horse race against Seabiscuit 21 years ago Sunday, is dead.

The 25-year-old son of Man O' War died Friday at Hamburg Place here after a two-day illness. No cause of death was announced.

It was Nov. 1, 1938, when War Admiral, voted the previous season's "horse of the year," took on Seabiscuit in the $15,000 Pimlico Special.

Seabiscuit, bought only three years earlier by Charles S. Howard for $7,500, paid $6.40 in winning the mile and three-sixteenths race. His time was 1:56 3-5.

War Admiral's career, beside the match race, reads like a story book. Like his sire, he liked the winning end of the field and came home first 21 times in 26 starts. He was out of the money only once.

Baseball Figure Dies

Beaver Local Loses, 24-12

Wayne of Jefferson County celebrated homecoming by recording its sixth straight win with a 24-12 victory over Beaver Local Friday afternoon. Wayne has been beaten once.

Scoring touchdowns in each of the first three periods, Wayne built up a 24-0 lead before Beaver Local broke the ice with a pair of touchdowns in the fourth quarter.

The two touchdowns scored by Coach Jack O'Rourke's team marked the first time that Wayne had been scored on in four games. After losing its opener of the season to Brilliant, Wayne rolled to six straight wins.

Jack Lyttle tallied twice for the winners on jaunts of 45 and 15 yards and Jack Milligan added the other on a 15-yard sprint.

Fred Needs and Jim Shingleton tallied the touchdowns for Beaver Local. Needs scored the first on a 20-yard run and Shingleton smashed over from the 5-yard line for the second.

The loss leaves Beaver Local with a 2-5 record.

Twyman Chalks Up 47 But Royals Are Beaten

By The Associated Press

Jack Twyman scored 47 points for the Cincinnati Royals in their game with the Syracuse Nationals Friday night, but it was in a lost cause.

The Nats, taking an early lead, defeated the Royals in their National Basketball Assn. game at Cincinnati 136-127 to grab third place in the Eastern Division.

Twyman was a one-man show, and in the first three periods he scored 41 points.

The winning Nationals divided their scoring well. Larry Costello was high for the team with 29 points, but Johnny Kerr got 22, Dolph Schayes 21 and Bob Hopkins 20.

Costello led the Nationals to a 73-64 half-time lead, and although Cincinnati narrowed the gap to five points in the third period it never could get closer.

Johnson's Three Tallies Spark Lisbon's Attack

LEETONIA — With halfback Denny Johnson scoring three touchdowns, Lisbon High School rolled over Leetonia, 32-14, before a "Parents Night" crowd here Friday night.

Johnson scored on runs of 15 and 17 yards and hauled in a 14-yard pass from Bowling for his third touchdown as the Blue Devils extended their season record to 5-2 under Coach Bud Bucher.

Coach Pat Mancusco's Leetonia Bears are now 1-5-1 for the year.

Lisbon marched 63 yards for a second quarter touchdown made by Brooks on a four-yard plunge. Fry also scored in the same period with a four-yard smash.

The Bears tallied twice in the second period on a pass from Macry to Gullett and Macry's short plunge.

Brooks was successful on a rush for Lisbon's only conversion in five attempts. Macry tossed to Gullett for Leetonia's two-points conversion.

South Side Tops Northwestern, 27-6, As Season Closes

Mayhew's 94-Yard Run Features Chester's 13-7 Victory

Air, Ground Attack Clicks For Winners

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

South Side wrote a successful end to its 1959 football season Friday night with a 27-6 victory over Northwestern of Darlington at the South Side field.

Some 900 fans braved showers which fell throughout the game. The rain, however, failed to hamper a powerful ground and aerial attack flashed by the Rams.

The victory gave Coach Dave Nichols and his squad a 3-5 record for the season.

The brilliant passing of quarterback Dan Frasier and the outstanding running of Rich Ashcroft and Charlie Brooks highlighted the South Side attack.

FRASIER had a hand in three of the four touchdowns. He scored the second touchdown of the contest and threw two TD passes.

Ashcroft, one of the top 10 scorers in the district, added two touchdowns to his total. He romped for 27 yards early in the first quarter and his second touchdown came on a pass from Frasier covering 41 yards. Ashcroft now has 54 points for the season.

South Side's other touchdown came on a 29-yard pass play, Frasier to end Dan Parsons, early in the fourth quarter.

The game was the final one tor 11 seniors, seven of whom are starters.

South Side struck quickly, jumping off to a 13-0 lead midway through the first period.

—:—

NORTHWESTERN'S lone touchdown came on a 55-yard sprint to paydirt by Skippy Vosovic late in the first quarter.

The Rams added another touchdown in the second quarter to take a 20-6 lead at halftime.

With Ashcroft and Brooks doing most of the ball carrying, South Side rolled up 239 yards on the ground and picked up 14 first downs.

Through the air lanes, Frasier battled .500 by connecting on three of six tosses for a total of 76 yards.

South Side's defense held Northwestern to a net 147 yards rushing and 49 yards by passing.

A brother combination of Sonny and Skippy Vosovic was the whole show for Northwestern. They picked up most of the 147 yards gained by the Panthers.

A fumble by Skippy Vosovic on the opening kickoff set up South Side's first touchdown.

Vosovic fumbled on his own 32-yard line and an alert Scott Walker, South Side guard, recovered.

—:—

BROOKS HIT up the middle for five yards and on the second play from scrimmage Ashcroft, who looked like he was hemmed in behind the line, put on a burst of speed to his left, then scooted down the sidelines for the first TD of the game.

Ashcroft was stopped short on his attempted run for the extra point.

South Side wasted little time and the next time the Rams got their hands on the ball drove 71 yards in 13 plays to the Northwestern 1-yard line, from where Frasier banged over for the second touchdown.

A 15-yard run turned in by Laughlin and a 15-yard penalty assessed against Homer Shadle, Northwestern coach, who ran out on the field protesting to an official, featured the touchdown drive.

Frasier passed to end Bill Baker for the extra point and South Side moved out in front 13-0.

After South Side kicked off, Northwestern moved to its own 45-yard line. A play later Skippy Vosovic found a hole over tackle, broke into the clear and dashed 55 yards for the touchdown that put the visitors back in the contest late in the first period.

Brooks broke through to block a placement attempt by Poncho Brown.

NEITHER team moved the ball early in the second quarter, but midway through the period South Side took over on its own 42 and advanced to the Northwestern 33.

A 15-yard clipping penalty put the ball back on the Northwestern 41. This set the stage for Frasier, who flipped a short pass to the 30 where Ashcroft hauled it in then streaked for the end zone.

Frasier connected with Parsons for the extra point.

Following a scoreless third quarter, South Side struck again early in the fourth period.

After Northwestern was forced to punt, South Side took over on the Panthers' 41-yard line.

The Rams moved for a first down to the Northwestern 29.

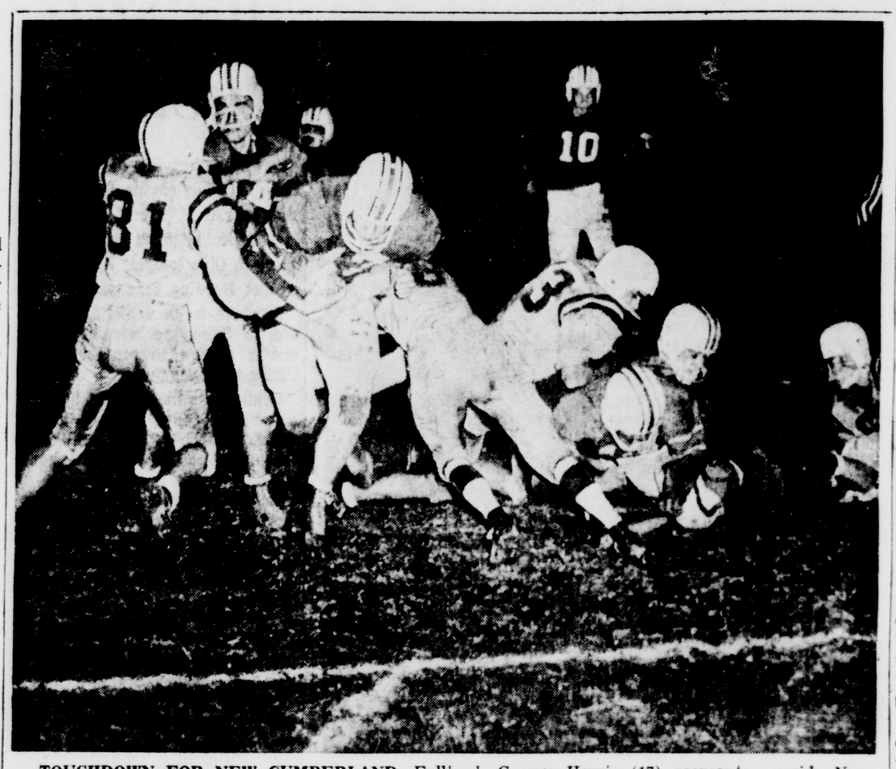

A play later Frasier found his end Baker all alone on the 5-yard line and tossed him a pass for the touchdown.

Frasier's placement split the uprights, ended the scoring.

Mothers of the players were honored at halftime and all senior players, members of the band and cheerleaders were introduced.

Bob Nichols, brother of the South Side coach, who was handling the yard marker Friday night received a deep cut on the forehead when he was knocked into a wire fence on an out-of-bounds play midway through the fourth quarter. He was treated by the school nurse.

TOUCHDOWN FOR NEW CUMBERLAND. Fullback George Harris (17) scores to provide New Cumberland High School with a 7-0 victory over Mt. Pleasant Friday night. Harris then kicked the extra point as the Blue Raiders won their Homecoming game.

New Cumberland Takes Homecoming Game, 7-0

New Cumberland punched across a second - quarter touchdown and then held off a later scoring threat by Mt. Pleasant to earn a 7-0 Homecoming triumph Friday night.

A slim crowd at the New Cumberland gridiron watched fullback George Harris chalk up the game's only touchdown when he plunged three yards to cap a 54-yard drive.

Quarterback Charles Miller, son of the New Cumberland coach, had intercepted a Mt. Pleasant pass and returned the ball to the Cumberland 46 when the Mounties were threatening in the second period. Miller engineered Cumberland's scoring march and set up the eventual touchdown run by Harris by throwing 37 yards to halfback, Ron Haynes.

Harris, a converted quarterback, booted the extra point as the Hancock County eleven made its season record to a 2-6-1. The Raiders end their season next week at Sistersville.

The New Cumberland squad and coaching staff attended the University of Pittsburgh - Syracuse football game today at Pitt Stadium as guests of the Raider Booster Club.

Panthers Post 7th Victory In Eight Games

After confining all of its scoring to the first half, Chester hung on in the third and fourth periods to come out on top, 13-7, Friday night at St. Mary's, W. Va.

A brilliant 94-yard touchdown run by Bill Mayhew in the second quarter later proved to be the deciding margin as Coach Dom Amedeo's Panthers gained their seventh victory in eight games.

Chester punched across a touchdown in the first period when Ken Sayre scored from two yards out. Mayhew then turned in his electrifing run and the Panthers took a 13-0 margin into the locker room at halftime.

St. Mary's shoved Chester around in the second half, but could only produce one touchdown. That came in the third quarter when St. Mary's marched 65 yards, with Al Rinehart going over from the one-yard line.

Rinehart was the big gun in the drive with runs of 15, 13 and 11 yards.

Two fumbles in Chester territory stopped other drives by St. Mary's, who dominated play in the second half. The Panthers failed to threaten in the last two quarters.

Chester's first touchdown by Sayre came after a 70-yard drive. Sayre set up the TD when he raced 21 yards to the St. Mary's 2-yard line.

Mayhew ran for the extra point following the first TD.

Early in the second quarter, after an exchange of punts, St. Mary's recovered a Chester fumble on the Panther 35-yard line.

St. Mary's drove to the Chester 5, but the Panthers held and took over on downs.

After a gain of one-yard to the 6, Mayhew broke loose and sprinted 94 yards to paydirt.

St. Mary's won the battle of first downs 16-8, but Chester picked up 215 yards rushing to St. Mary's 191.

Chester stayed on the ground throughout the game.

Last night's victory marked the third straight since Chester suffered its only defeat of the season, a 12-6 reversal to Wellsville.

NORRISTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Bert Bell, National Football League commissioner who died Oct. 11, left most of his estate to his widow. The estate was estimated at $95,000 for probate purposes.

After a $50,000 bequest to his brother, Justice John C. Bell Jr., of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, about half of the estate will go to Bell's three children.

Warren Battered, 38-8, As Massillon Rolls On

MASSILLON (Special) — Massillon was firmly entrenched today as the No. 1 high school football team in the state of Ohio after a smashing 38-8 victory over the Black Panthers of Warren here Friday night.

It would be hard to convince the crowd of 21,000 that sat in on the game that there is any team better.

It was Massillon's seventh straight victory without a defeat and Warren's second setback in seven games.

—:—

AS IN Warren's loss to East Liverpool, Paul Warfield, the Panthers' star halfback, again was held in check, gaining only 60 yards in 9 carries.

Massillon took advantage of three Warren misplays in the first half to help build up the score. Massillon lead 30-0 at the intermission.

The scoring star for the Tigers was 150 - pound junior Marti Gugov, who was responsible for two touchdowns and scored four extra points on runs after touchdown.

Fullback Art Hastings also sparkled for the Bengals. He scored two touchdowns, one a beautiful 74-yard run.

Hastings also converted for two points and is now the Tigers' top point producer with 58. Massillons' other touchdown was posted by Bill Finney on a one - yard crash over tackle.

The Tigers' Hayes McKey kicked off to Warren, who got the ball on its own 33. The Black Panthers got to their own 45 where Massillon recovered a fumble.

In two plays, Finney went to the 29. Hastings then hit tackle twice to the 7 and Gugov drove to the 4. Hastings plowed to the 2 and Gugov went in for the touchdown at 6:06. Finney ran for the two points and Massillon was ahead, 8-0.

McKey kicked to Warren and on the third play Hastings intercepted an aerial by quarterback Doug Brown on the Massillon 40.

—:—

WITH HASTINGS and Finney taking turns carrying the ball, Massillon roared to the Warren 10 as the first quarter ended.

Two ground plays got to the 7. Gugov then circled end to the 2 before going over at 10:38. Hastings went around end for the extra points as the Tigers widened their advantage to 16-0.

Warren was unable to move against the Tigers and had to kick. The Warren punt went awry and flopped out of bounds on the visitors' 21. The Tigers hammered to the six and Hastings, who is only a junior, powered over for the touchdown. Gugov's drive over tackle was good for the extra points and Massillon was in front, 24-0.

The Black Panthers downed a Massillon kick at mid - field and advanced to the 26 before being forced to give up the ball on downs.

On the first play from scrimmage, Hastings scooted down the sidelines for 74 yards and the touchdown. Finney's run for extra point was stopped.

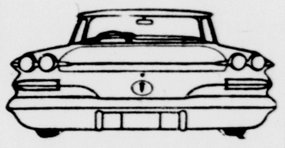

The Tigers crossed the goal line in the third period for their only score of the second half. The Bengals recovered a Warren fumble on the Black Panther 44 and marched all the way to the Warren one from where Finney barged over for the score. Gugov converted with a run over tackle and Massillon had a big 38-0 bulge.

Warren scored early in the fourth quarter with a pass that covered 21 yards from Brown to end Dick Laraway, who was waiting in the end zone. Warfield ran across for the extra points.

Candidates Guests At Meeting Of South Beaver Civic Group

A number of candidates for Beaver County offices in the election Tuesday attended the monthly meeting of the South Beaver County Civic Association Thursday evening at the Hookstown Grange Hall.

J. Stanley Miller, vice president, presided. Howard Miller of Clinton R. D. reported on the highway committee's trip to Pittsburgh and talks with L. J. Curran, district engineer for the State Highway Department.

Miller asked that letters be sent to Curran and Park H. Martin, highway secretary, asking for an extension of the airport highway to Route 30.

George Werner, Beaver County Democratic chairman, introduced his party's candidates. They included Richard P. Steward, for district attorney; John H. Hineman, sheriff; Kathleen Evans, clerk of courts; John Neely Jr., register of wills; Anthony J. Kubik, prothonotary; Dr. Thomas F. Todd, coroner, and Paul Doughty, recorder of deeds.

Frank Kelker, Republican campaign chairman, introduced Republican Henry J. Albaugh, for district attorney; Matthew Zvonar, sheriff; William B. Butler, register of wills; Henrietta B. Anderson, clerk of courts; Harvey R. Robinson, prothonotary, and Dr. John W. Colavincenzo, coroner.

During a question - and - answer period, Steward and Albaugh were asked their stands on operations of raffles and bingo games by charity organizations and churches. Both said they "would prosecute if informations were filed." Steward said they are illegal, according to the law.

Todd and Colavincenzo were asked about qualifications for coroner. Todd was asked if it cost the county more without the services of a medical doctor in the office. He said someone more trained in investigative work would be far more valuable.

Colvincenzo, questioned on the time a doctor loses when serving the job, said he is self-employed as an anesthologist at the Rochester General Hospital in the forenoon and has the afternoon and evenings free.

In other business, Carl Lutton announced that a public round and square dance will be held Dec. 11 at the Hookstown Grange Hall. Tom Dudash's Orchestra will play and Art Figley will be caller.

Next meeting will be Nov. 19 with place to be announced.

'What Caused It?' Scientists Ask As Ice Chunks Fall

CLEVELAND (AP)—What is the origin of two chunks of ice—each the size of a basketball—that fell from the sky over suburban Beachwood Friday.

That's the big puzzler for scientists and Weather Bureau officials. And they are pretty well stumped.

One ball of ice tore a 15-inch hole in the roof of a home and a gaping hole in the upstairs ceiling. The other fell on the fairway of the Highland Park golf course, about 100 yards from two golfers.

One explanation came from Willson H. Hunter, an official of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Lewis Research Center here. He said the ice probably formed on an unprotected portion of an airplane and then was dislodged when the plane flew through warmer air over Cleveland.

The Weather Bureau's spokesman at Cleveland Hopkins Airport, however, said conditions over the city Friday were not those in which heavy ice would have formed. The weather expert also ruled out hailstones.

Special Entertainment Set At Midland Center

Special entertainment and Halloween decorations will highlight the Midland Hi-Spot Youth Center's fourth annual Jack O'Lantern Ball tonight from 8:30 to 11:30 in the Borough Building, Mrs. William Spisak, director, said.

Paul Laughlin of Fairview, who recently recorded two songs, will sing. Stan Scott of "Nine Teen Time" on WSTV, Steubenville, will bring two vocal groups.

Homemade pizza, sweet cider and doughnuts will be served.

The center will make its annual UNICEF donation to Miss Marilyn Petrosky, a representative of the Midland Christian Youth Fellowship.

Prizes will be awarded for Halloween costumes.

Killed Near Urbana

URBANA, Ohio (AP)—Ralph E. Kidder, 48, of Champaign County, was killed near here Friday night in an auto-truck crash. Sheriff's deputies said Kidder's pickup truck struck the rear of a car on Middle Urbana Road and rolled into a ditch. Two persons in the car suffered minor cuts.

Scientists speculate that the dust on the moon may contain a record of the origin of life.

Lisbon Autoist Cited After Wrecking His Car

A Lisbon area man was cited for drunk driving and driving without an operator's permit after wrecking his car on Route 30 between Lisbon and Hanoverton, about seven and a half miles east of Route 9, Friday night at 9. This was the lone accident investigated by the Lisbon State Highway Patrol.

Officers said Walter Shellito, 53, of Lisbon R. D. 4 apparently was traveling at a high rate of speed, lost control on a curve and rolled over into a ditch on the left side of the highway. Considerable damage resulted to his 1951 car.

A passenger, Carl Frase, 65, of Marshallville, suffered contusions of the left elbow. He was treated at Salem City Hospital.

'Hound Dog' Missile In Successful Flight

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP)—A GAM-77 Hound Dog air-to-surface missile was launched from under the wing of a B52 Stratofortress Friday night and made a successful flight.

The self-guided flight, the first for a Hound Dog, took it to a predetermined spot hundreds of miles off Florida's East Coast.

The long-range missile was guided by its self-contained inertial autonavigation system, which the Air Force said was foolproof against radar jamming.

The Stratofortress left Eglin for the test, carried out under direction of the Air Research and Development Command.

The capabilities of the 51-foot, supersonic Hound Dog have not been announced.

Police Are Called As Damone's 'Ex' Gets The Jitters

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police rushed to the Bel Air home of Pier Angeli Friday night after getting a call from her ex-husband's partner indicating the actress was extremely upset.

Police Sgt. W. H. Bertsch said the actress obviously had been crying. He said no suicide attempt had been made.

The excitement began when the actress phoned her ex-husband, singer Vic Damone, at his restaurant in Fresno, Calif.

Damone said she asked about press accounts linking him to another woman and then became upset. As he continued talking to his wife, he signaled his partner, Sol Branker, to call police in Los Angeles.

Damone continued talking to his wife until police arrived at her home.

The couple was divorced last December. They reconciled briefly last summer but split again.

8 Rescued From Shaft After Fire Breaks Out

DANBY, Vt. (AP)—Eight men were trapped two and a half hours in a marble quarry shaft Friday by a fire that destroyed a machinery building at the shaft entrance. They were rescued unharmed.

The men, trapped in a 1,500-foot shaft that tunnels into the hillside nearly horizontally, dropping only 25 or 30 feet through its length, moved deep into the shaft as smoke swirled in. They said they were able to stay in clear air under the smoke.

Will the Oakes Murder Ever Be Solved?

By ELLERY QUEEN

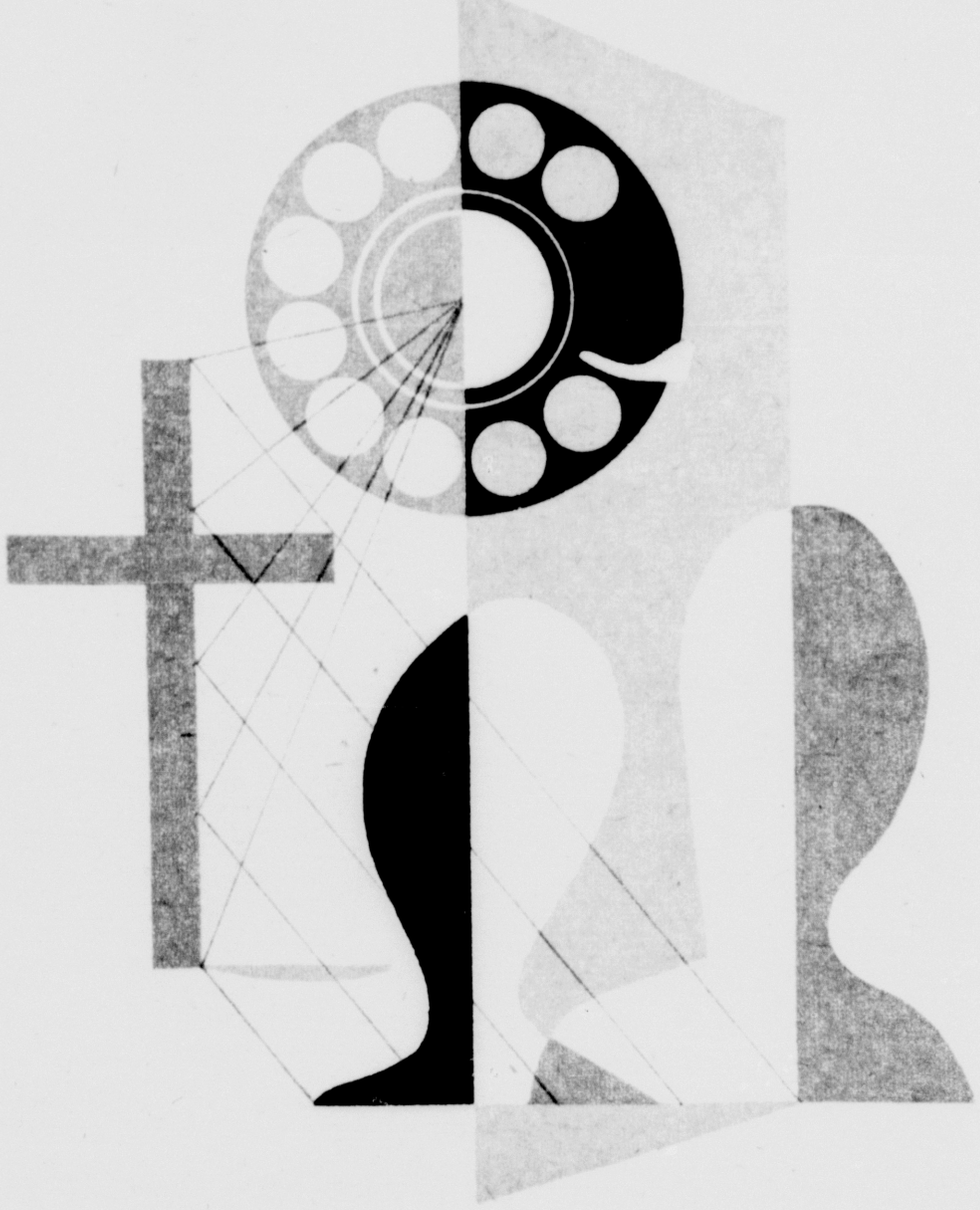

Fred Astaire and Barrie Chase

See: Hitch Your Wagon to Astaire

November is Religion in American Life Month, during which the nation is reminded of the importance of prayer. The following article underscores RIAL's theme that strength for a person as well as a nation comes from living faith.

FAITH BY PHONE

by CARL BAKAL

The age-old power of prayer is being brought to millions daily by the simple modern expedient of dialing a number

ON THE NIGHT TABLE were a bottle of potassium cyanide and a telephone. The distraught man stared at them, instruments of life and death in this moment of utter desolation. His hand went out, hesitated over the poison, then moved toward the receiver.

In a moment he was listening to the recorded message of inspiration from Dr. John Sutherland Bonnell, pastor of New York's Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church. No life is hopeless to God, Dr. Bonnell was saying. Eyes closed, the man listened to the message, over and over, before calling Dr. Bonnell directly.

"Do you really believe what you say on that recording, Dr. Bonnell?" he asked. The clergyman assured him that he did and, sensing the man's crisis, invited him to his study for a personal talk. When the man left their meeting, he handed Dr. Bonnell the bottle of potassium cyanide with which he had planned to end his life. He had taken on new hope, found new strength.

"Faith by phone" has saved more than one person from suicide and has given moments of spiritual solace to millions of others caught in the hectic pace of daily living. In an estimated 150 areas, no man is farther from the comfort of prayer than the nearest telephone, and the number of persons using this service increases daily.

In Los Angeles, 10,000 calls a day are received by the YMCA service. Chicago's "Y" handles 5,000 daily and has counted more than a million in its three years of operation. In smaller cities, the Memorial Baptist Church of Columbia, Mo., (pop. 32,000) gets 400 calls daily for its "Inspiration, Please," and the Cactus Drive Church of Levelland, Texas, receives about 100.

"In this atomic age, men feel the need for prayer more than ever," explains the Rev. August F. Brunn, whose St. Andrew's Lutheran Church offers telephone inspiration to Pittsburgh. "Our business as a church is to bring the word of God to men whenever they need it. The telephone is one of our ways of doing it."

The help offered by these recorded messages is as varied as the people in need. An Ohio factory worker, victim of a boss with a furious temper, dials the local prayer service when there are arguments and hands the receiver to his chief. The soothing words calm everybody.

Housewives find the messages steady jangled nerves, businessmen phone when facing a difficult decision, as do doctors about to enter the operating room. Hospital patients, shut-ins, the aged, and others who cannot visit their ministers dial a prayer several times a day.

A Marion, Ohio, minister reports that a five-year-old boy calls the local prayer service every day, listens to the message, then dials again for the benefit of his aged, blind grandmother.

Many persons report that they call every day on arising. A Broadalbin, N. Y., woman refers to it as her "right start for the day." In Madison, Wis., an elderly lady, afraid at night, finds the message gives her the calm to go to sleep. Some families have incorporated the recorded messages into their evening devotions.

COMMUNITY churches, or groups of churches, usually sponsor the dial-a-prayer services, which cost anywhere from $15 to $1,000 a month. The YMCA, chambers of commerce, Kiwanis and other service groups also give the programs financial backing.

The recorded devotions run anywhere from 10 seconds to two minutes and are usually nondenominational. In most communities, the messages are changed daily, and in Scarsdale, N. Y., reportedly the first dial-a-prayer town in the nation, they are changed twice a day.

Simple prayers are most popular, but readings may include Psalms, Bible verse, and other sections of Scripture, or perhaps just a plain "pep talk." Some telephone prayers have specific aims, though. In Chicago, alcoholics fighting the urge to lose themselves in a bottle can dial a number to spend "A Minute a Day with the Major." This is a message directed at drinkers by Maj. Roland Quinn of the Salvation Army's Harbor Light Center on Skid Row. More than 100,000 calls have come to Major Quinn's number in three years, and many have phoned him personally for specific advice or to arrange an interview.

Of the general prayers, possibly the most popular was recorded by F. William Stahl, branch associate general secretary of the Baltimore YMCA, who has selected and read more than 1,000 messages. This is how it goes:

"Lord, give me the strength to accept with serenity the things that cannot be changed. Give me the courage to change the things that can be changed and give me the wisdom to distinguish one from the other."

Simple words. But for the anxious person pausing in his day to dial a moment's peace, they lift the spirit and remind him of life's true importance.

Pick Your First Lady Now!

With the Presidential election just one year off, here's a picture quiz to see if you can identify the wives of the leading candidates

by JOHN HOCHMANN

BARRING a major political shift, one of the men pictured here will be elected President of the United States just one year from now. As a corollary, one of their wives —or, in one case, a sister—will become First Lady.

By next Election Day, the candidates' wives will have become almost as familiar as their husbands as they accompany them on campaign trips, shake hands, accept bouquets, and eat countless chicken dinners. But this year they're still relatively unknown, so to liven up 1959's off-year Election Day, try to match up the potential candidates and their ladies in this picture quiz.

Clues are offered under the women's pictures, and the correct answers are on page 22.

Youngest of the potential first ladies; her husband is a Senator and author of a prize-winning book. She studied in Paris, speaks three languages, and worked on a Washington newspaper. A shy campaigner, she makes friends with her charm and good humor.

She opposed her husband's nomination for his present job because it meant giving up their home in San Francisco. But soon she became so enthusiastic about campaigning that she left her sickbed on election night to make last-minute appeals with him.

Her husband is one of four Senators among the candidates. Twenty years ago she helped him through college by doing secretarial work and making sandwiches for students. She enjoys politics and has given speeches herself for her husband.

Though her husband is the newest entry in the political sweepstakes, his chances are rated among the best. She now lives in a state capital, but even if she moves to the White House, it will be only one home among several.

Perhaps the most familiar name on the list, she has been in the national eye for eight years and has traveled through Asia, South America, and Russia with her husband. Formerly a high-school teacher, she met her husband while acting in an amateur theatrical group.

Sister of a potential candidate, she already has had two opportunities to become official White House hostess in lieu of a President's wife. During her brother's previous campaigns, she was an active worker.

A Senator's wife; her father was a Senator, too. But perhaps her greatest claim to fame in her own right came during the '30s when she tried a singing career and had a great success in New York night clubs.

One of the most attractive of possible first ladies, her husband holds the job that sent Woodrow Wilson to the White House. Her father is president of Oberlin College where she met her husband at a student political convention. A cousin of hers is a recent Presidential candidate.

If a convention deadlock results in her husband's nomination and election, she will be right at home in the White House greeting distinguished guests because her husband is now mayor of a city most of them visit.

Nicknamed "Lady Bird," she is the wife of a highly energetic Senator and is credited with helping him relax more since his heart attack. She loves politics, says, "It's been a front-row seat on the human comedy."

Will the Oakes Murder Ever Be Solved?

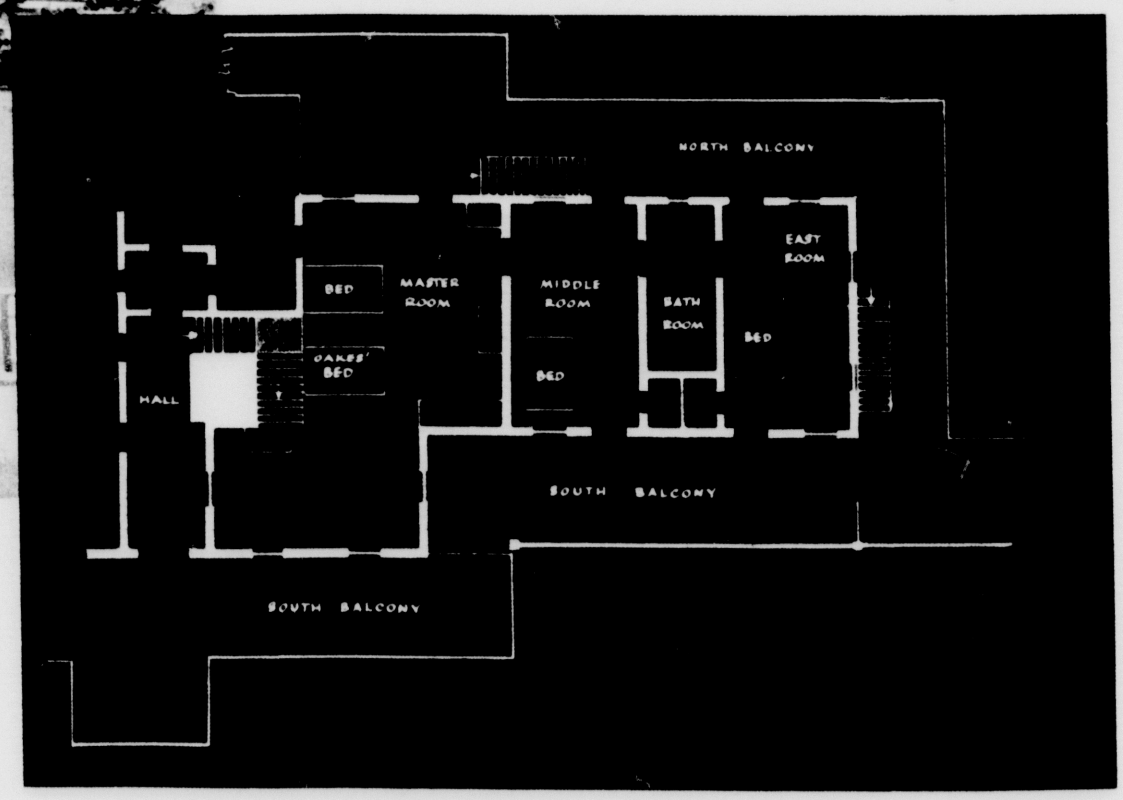

by ELLERY QUEEN

IN MAY, 1959, 16 years after the murder of Bahamian multimillionaire Sir Harry Oakes, a determined gentleman named Cyril St. John Stevenson, editor-publisher of The Nassau Herald and member of the Bahamas House of Assembly, rose in that body to introduce a resolution requesting Gov. Sir Raynor Arthur to reopen the Oakes murder investigation, enlisting Scotland Yard's help.

"In my opinion," Stevenson told his colleagues, "Oakes was killed by one of his close friends whom he had no reason to suspect and who drank with him several hours before the murder." And the Bahamian newspaperman-legislator thundered, "I could point my finger at the man responsible!"

The House passed his resolution unanimously. In its issue of July 18, 1959—a full two months later—The Nassau Herald complained, "It is apparent to everyone that the governor intends to delay his decision on the Oakes murder case until the death rattle sounds in the throat of the present session of the House. . . .A murderer is walking the streets of the colony today with all the protection and security afforded the Queen of England."

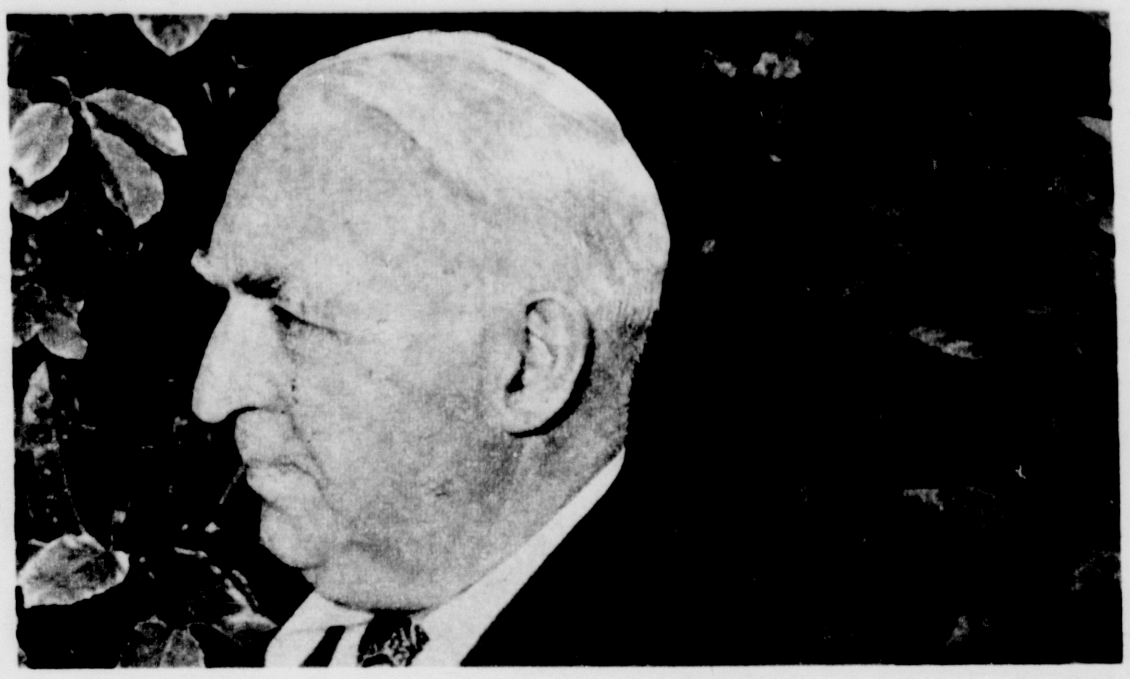

This is the Nassau house, known as Westbourne, where Sir Harry was brutally murdered. The shuttered windows on upper balcony led to his room. The floor plan shows the wing he slept in.

The cast of characters in one of the most baffling mysteries to confront the police were (from left to right): the victim, Sir Harry Oakes; his son-in-law, Count Alfred de Marigny; his daughter, Nancy; friend and business associate, Harold Christie; and Raymond Schindler, the famous American detective.

The unacted-on resolution of the Bahamian assembly is only the latest in a series of tragicomic events in one of the most grotesque murder cases of the past half century.

In the cast of characters of this officially unsolved bludgeon-blowtorch-mutilation murder are the Duke of Windsor, ex-king of England, who as governor general of the Bahamas, in 1943, at first believed that Sir Harry's murder was a suicide; the Miami police captain he summoned to Nassau, who neglected to bring along proper fingerprinting equipment; a world-famous American private detective (retained by the chief suspect's wife—the murdered man's daughter, Nancy Oakes de Marigny) who was impeded and harassed throughout his independent investigation.

Defendant de Marigny, Nancy Oakes' then-husband and the only person ever to stand trial for the murder, was a count who raised chickens. He was acquitted in short order.

Bahamian Cyril Stevenson is not the only one who claims to be able to name the murderer of Sir Harry Oakes. The name has been whispered about the islands for 16 years. Yet its bearer has never been arrested, detained, or even publicly accused of the crime. (It will be noted that Mr. Stevenson prudently did not name a man in either the House of Assembly or his newspaper.)

The trusted friend and business ally, whom rumor accuses of having brutally killed Sir Harry, to this day goes about his business on New Providence Island, carrying the burden of his alleged guilt as lightly as any native woman balancing a basket of eggs on her head.

HARRY OAKES was born a poor but honest down-East Yankee who saw no future in lobster pots and, in 1896, at the age of 21, set out to make his fortune. Gold was his object, and for 15 years he sought the yellow stuff, from the Klondike to the Philippines to West Africa to Australia; finally, by sheer fluke, in 1911, he struck a bonanza in northern Ontario, Canada. It became the second-richest gold mine in the world.

In 1923, a millionaire of 48, Oakes returned to Australia to marry a girl 10 years his junior who had been waiting for him for 20 years, a Sydney jewelry-shop clerk named Eunice MacIntyre. By 1938, when he was 63, Oakes had acquired five children, six mansions, an income of $3 million a year, British citizenship, and a baronetcy.

That was the year Sir Harry Oakes and a Bahamian real-estate operator named Harold Christie became friends. As a result, in 1939 the Oakes family took up official residence in Nassau, Bahamas, where the income tax was negligible. It was from Christie that Oakes purchased Westbourne, a regal 20-bedroom estate, for a reported $500,000; it was with Christie that he engaged in numerous lucrative real-estate deals. At his death, Oakes was worth some $200 million, and he and Christie were the two most powerful men in the islands.

Oakes was no beloved tycoon. His photos show a rough rimrock face with merciless eyes under shaggy brows, a vulturine nose, a mouth set in concrete, and a chin and jaw like the prow of a submarine. He made enemies as naturally as he made millions. He manhandled his servants. He spat in the faces of shopkeepers who incurred his royal displeasure. He had an eye, and more than an eye, not only for attractive lady tourists but for their shapely sisters in permanent Bahamian residence as well; his conquests were reputed to include many who had smoldering husbands.

A man born, some said, to be murdered.

And murdered he was during the night of July 7, 1943, in his many-roomed mansion in Nassau, all alone except for his old friend and business crony, Harold Christie.

Lady Oakes and the Oakes children had gone north some time before to escape Nassau's summer heat; they were far away that night, in the United States. Oakes himself was planning to fly to the mainland the next morning to join them; and that night he had entertained a few guests at a small, select farewell party. Among them was Christie.

All the guests but Christie departed about midnight. While the native servants cleaned up, Sir Harry and the real-estate broker discussed some business matters over a drink or two. Shortly afterward, the servants left the house for their cabins, and Sir Harry and his friend said good night and retired—Oakes to the master bedroom, Christie to the so-called East Room, located 18 feet away.

During the night, Christie testified at de Marigny's trial, he slept fitfully. Nevertheless, he said, he heard nothing from his host's room; a tropical storm raged half the night. A little before 7 a.m., Christie tapped on his host's door. Getting no answer, he entered to find the master bedroom filled with smoke from a smoldering mattress and rug, and Sir Harry, face up in his bed, bloody, burned, and dead.

SOMEONE HAD inflicted four deep, triangle-shaped bludgeon wounds behind the victim's left ear, applied an intense flame to the eyes and other parts of the body, and set fire to the bed. A pall of uncharred feathers from the mattress had some time later been strewn over the corpse.

The bestial nature of the murder, plus the strewn feathers, at first suggested some barbaric revenge-rite. Professed Christians though native Bahamians are, the remains of voodoo fires can still be found in remote sections of the islands' palmetto brush. But this thought was not pursued.

The savage murder at once turned into a tragicomedy of errors and omissions. To this day, no one knows, or will tell, who notified the police. When the superintendent arrived with his constables, matters worsened. By actual count, 13 persons were allowed to enter the murder room before an RAF photographer was asked to snap pictures of the scene of the crime. By then a silk Chinese screen standing beside the victim's bed had been moved and hundreds of fingers had left prints on it—although later the dead man's son-in-law was to go on trial for his life because a single print among the hundreds was alleged to be his.

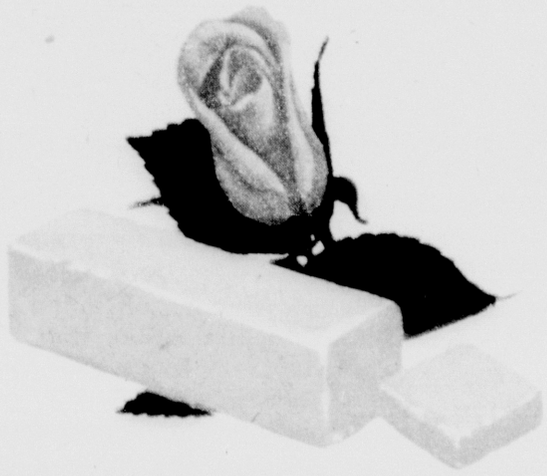

Sir Harry had made no bones about his contempt for Nancy's husband; he had considered de Marigny a no-account fortune hunter, and at the time of the murder the two men had not been on speaking terms for months. As for the count's regard for his father-in-law, one of the first things Miami policemen heard on setting foot in Nassau was the rumor that,

NEW Flavor-Bloomed PARKAY

New KRAFT discovery creates first margarine with full-bloomed flavor! You taste the full delicate flavor as never before. You even see the delicious difference. Like the high-priced spread, it's more velvety, less shiny.

MOST MARGARINES unfold their flavor more slowly than the high-priced spread. They have a tighter texture, look more glossy, keep more of their flavor locked in—like a bud that never blooms. That's why some people think the flavor of their present margarine tastes "incomplete." Such margarines lack the fast, full flavor release that makes a spread truly delicious.

FLAVOR-BLOOMED PARKAY is made a new way, so that all its sweetness and fullness of flavor "bursts open" on the tongue . . . instantly unfolding the most delicious taste ever achieved in a spread. You'll notice a new bloom and delicacy of appearance, too—more velvety, less shiny. In looks, texture and taste, new Parkay is more than a match for the high-priced spread.

when news of Sir Harry's murder reached de Marigny that morning, the count had remarked, "It's about time somebody killed the old——."

The Miami men decided that, in setting fire to Sir Harry's bed, the murderer himself almost certainly suffered slight burns. Harold Christie had already been examined with this in mind and given a clean bill. Questioning de Marigny and being told that, during the murder period (between 2:30 and 5 a.m.) the count had been asleep in his cottage five miles from Westbourne, the American detectives examined him and found the hair singed on his hands, arms, and the VanDyke beard he affected.

De Marigny claimed that his hair might have been seared when he burned the feathers off some chickens a week before. In the face of this explanation, the count's lack of an alibi, and one of his fingerprints allegedly lifted off the Chinese screen the day after the murder with some transparent tape, the Nassau police arrested de Marigny.

Convinced that her husband was innocent, Nancy Oakes de Marigny engaged Raymond C. Schindler, the famous American private detective, to help free de Marigny. Schindler took the case and soon satisfied himself that the count was guiltless.

He dug up an alibi for de Marigny. It was provided by the count's friend, the Marquis de Visdelou-Guimbeau, who had spent most of the murder night in de Marigny's company, and that of two Bahamian ladies, under circumstances a gentleman was loath to discuss. Schindler felt that the scant half-hour the marquis could not account for his friend's movements was far too little to have allowed de Marigny to drive the five miles to Westbourne, commit the complicated crime, and return.

The fingerprint on the Chinese screen could have been deposited there, de Marigny explained to Schindler, while he wandered about Westbourne before his arrest, waiting to be questioned. It was de Marigny's opinion, however, that his print had been deliberately faked by authorities.

Astonishingly, this theory was confirmed by Schindler and two of America's outstanding fingerprint experts called in for the defense. They concluded by comparing the Crown's photograph of the Chinese screen-de Marigny fingerprint with photographs they themselves took of the screen, that the backgrounds were quite different; their pictures of the screen showed a smooth surface, whereas the Crown's picture placed the print against a background of circles, as from a water glass.

THE POLICE had never advanced even a theory as to precisely what kind of bludgeon had caused the queer triangle-shaped wounds on the dead man's head. Schindler prowled about the tool shed of a more modest house Oakes owned in Nassau, procured an inventory of the tools kept there, and discovered that one was missing—a prospector's pick. A prospector's pick has a triangular point. Just such a weapon could have inflicted the wounds. But with it gone, Schindler could prove nothing.

Dogged by hostile police tailing him, Ray Schindler turned up more and more leads to the possible murderer of Sir Harry Oakes. None of these had apparently been followed up by the local authorities. Harold Christie, presumably the last person besides the murderer to have seen Sir Harry alive and the only known occupant of the mansion on the night of the crime, had been dropped as a suspect as soon as he passed the hair-singeing test.

Schindler's office turned up some interesting information about Christie's background in the States, before he settled in Nassau. A man named Phillips,

The Duke and Duchess of Windsor figured in the case because he was Governor of the Bahamas at the time.

an ex-investigator for the U.S. Treasury Department, claimed that Christie had run rum in the early '20s, had had Capone mob connections, and had been in trouble with Federal authorities in Boston. An examination of the Federal records there revealed that the index number relating to Christie's "trouble" had disappeared from the files. The missing number led to a document alleging an infraction by Christie of a Federal statute, and included a "body attachment," a sort of warrant, which had never been served.

A photostat of the warrant bearing Christie's name was mailed from New York to Ray Schindler in Nassau, just before de Marigny's trial. With Harold Christie an all-important witness for the Crown, the defense felt that the placement of this document in evidence might tend to discredit his character and, therefore, his testimony.

But the envelope containing the document did not reach Schindler in time for the trial. It never reached him. To this day, the mystery of its failure to be delivered has never been explained.

COUNT DE MARIGNY was acquitted, and there the case has rested. Although Nancy subsequently divorced him and remarried, she recently told London reporters that she has "information of value" and is eager to testify if the case is reopened. Witnesses now scattered in a dozen countries have agreed to return to Nassau if officially asked. De Marigny himself, now living in Cuba, has stated in a biography that Oakes was shot, not beaten to death, and charged the Bahamian authorities with ignoring "inconsistencies" in the Crown testimony.

In 1950 a woman reporter and lawyer from Washington, D.C., Betty Renner, was found dead at the bottom of a Bahamian well. Her friends said that she had been warned to stop asking questions about the Oakes case. A routine inquiry expired quietly.

Informed opinion in Nassau holds that Oakes' killing was engineered by a trusted associate whom Sir Harry discovered dabbling in something illegal he could not or would not stomach. Sir Harry is supposed to have been collecting evidence in secret against this person. This person found it out and hired a powerful islander to commit the murder and make it look like native voodoo revenge.

This writer himself, many years ago, had pointed out to him a Bahamian woman, gatekeeper of an estate on a remote cay of New Providence Island, who allegedly was the widow of the accomplice; she had been given the gatekeeping sinecure, he was told, to keep her mouth shut.

Is the Bahamian government afraid of this alleged mastermind? Or is he too important or dangerous to touch without an airtight case? Into what lofty realms does the Oakes case reach?

Many people think they can answer all these questions.

But the Bahamas House of Assembly has recessed without seeing Cyril Stevenson's resolution implemented. Sixteen years after Sir Harry Oakes' grisly murder, inaction, frustration, and shadowy mystery continue to characterize the case.

by WALT CHANDOHA

THEY MAY or may not be your favorite breed, but during International Cat Week—which begins today—you have to admit that Siamese cats have a certain sophisticated, internationally traveled air about them. I certainly find this so as a professional photographer specializing in cats.

Their sophistication may be because they came here from the Old World, but just where they originated is uncertain. It may even have been Siam—although they are rare there now.

Siamese are the most numerous of the so-called purebred cats, and I'm partial to them because they're so active and because they can hold rather intelligent conversations. I have a special fondness for a Siamese called Barney who talks incessantly and mostly to himself, but who likes to strike up a five-minute discussion with the human members of his household every now and again.

With their slim bodies, delicate bones, and long muscles, Siamese are a lithe and energetic breed and it's a rare specimen who doesn't enjoy a daily session of climbing, jumping, running—or playing with a shade pull.

They're pure white at birth and sometimes cross-eyed. But as their colors come and they begin flexing their muscles—and voices—they turn into what one author has called "the gayest thing on earth."

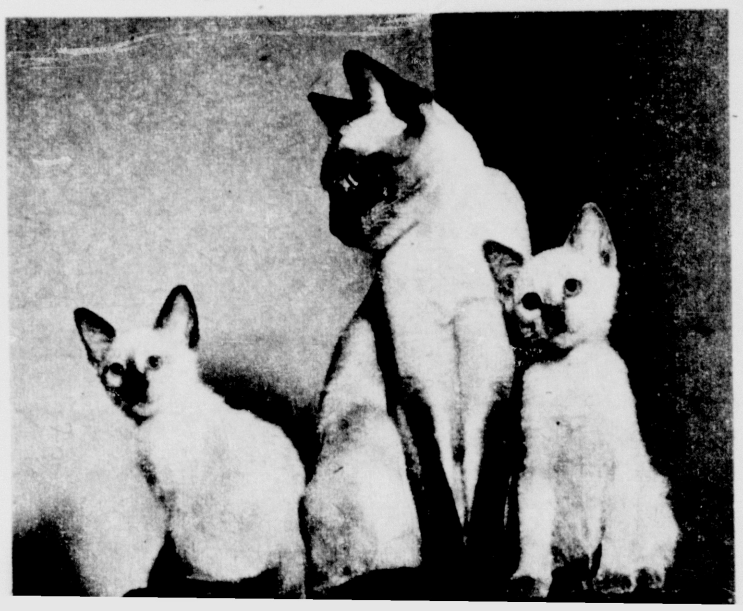

A well-marked Siamese looks as if he put snoot in soot.

Although good conversationalists, some are hard to look straight in the eye.

Siamese are proud of their beauty and strike statuesque poses for Chandoha's photography.

REGULARITY WITHOUT PILLS OR MEDICINES

Millions have eased away constipation with a good-tasting breakfast food

Corrects constipation due to lack of bulk

Has this happened to you? If you are bothered with constipation, have you fallen into a trap that may be both harmful and expensive?

Every time you get off schedule, do you seek relief with harsh laxative drugs—and find yourself taking pills or medicines in larger and larger doses?

It may come as a surprise to you that when constipation is caused by a lack of bulk in your diet (which is often the case), it can be corrected with a good-tasting cereal food.

This good-food way to safe, natural regularity is Kellogg's All-Bran—just a half-cup of Kellogg's All-Bran once a day, with milk. There's a simple reason why Kellogg's All-Bran is so effective. It is whole bran—and bran is nature's best bulk-forming food. Even a small amount gives you all the bulk you need to stay on schedule.

If you'd like to ease away constipation this natural way, try eating Kellogg's All-Bran once a day for 10 days. But be sure that you get the original, appetizing All-Bran—Kelloggs' All-Bran. It's America's favorite whole bran cereal by 3 to 1!

These drugs, combined in a new formula, give more positive relief than ever before! So effective, you even see they're at work – when "the blue comes through." With kidney function improved, DeWitt's helps you have more pain-free days, more restful nights.

STOP OILY SKIN TO CHECK PIMPLES!

Don't pick, scratch, squeeze or merely "cover them up"

Doctors know that acne or pimples are caused by the germ called the acne bacillus. These germs invade overactive oil glands in the skin, cause blackheads and pus pockets; then your skin "breaks out."

What's needed is (1) to dry up the excessive oil that collects on skin; (2) to destroy acne germs on the skin, and (3) to stop itching and irritation so pimples can heal.

A doctor's formula, liquid Zemo has this effective 3-way action; also keeps skin looking cleaner!

Some American tourists were in the back jungle of a tropic country when they came across a group of women doing laundry. There were hot springs and cold springs almost side by side for washing and rinsing. Not far away were convenient, smooth rocks for beating the clothes.

"You women must be thankful to Mother Nature for being so thoughtful," one woman tourist remarked.

"Thoughtful!" scoffed one sour laundress. "Where's the detergent?"

Nagging backache, headache, or muscular aches and pains may come on with over-exertion, emotional upsets or day to day stress and strain. And folks who eat and drink unwisely sometimes suffer mild bladder irritation...with that restless, uncomfortable feeling.

If you are miserable and worn out because of these discomforts, Doan's Pills often help by their pain relieving action, by their soothing effect to ease bladder irritation, and by their mild diuretic action through the kidneys—tending to increase the output of the 15 miles of kidney tubes.

So if nagging backache makes you feel dragged-out, miserable, with restless, sleepless nights, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, get the same happy relief millions have enjoyed for over 60 years. Ask for new, large, economy size and save money. Get Doan's Pills today!

What You Should Know About Catastrophe Insurance

What if your family were suddenly faced with an enormous hospital bill? Here is a type of coverage to consider before that happens

HEALTH INSURANCE—protection against doctors' and hospital bills—is now as familiar an institution as hot dogs and mustard. Most of us have it, and we've come to rely on it to pay the bills when our children are born, when one of the kids has his tonsils out, or when Grandma slips and breaks a leg.

Few of us, however, are covered for the disastrous accident or crippling disease that might require a long hospital confinement, costing thousands of dollars. Recently, insurance companies have recognized this shortcoming of standard health-insurance policies and now offer what they call "catastrophe" or "major medical" insurance.

Catastrophe insurance is written on a deductible basis like automobile insurance: you pay the bills for any accident or illness up to, let's say, $200 or $500, then the policy takes over and pays up to as much as $5,000 or $10,000.

A Baltimore, Md., office worker bought a catastrophe policy a couple of years ago and recently learned that his wife had cancer. His salary was $5,500 per year, hardly enough to pay for the major operation she needed, and his health insurance would cover only a fraction of the bill.

His wife remained in the hospital for 30 days. The total cost of the operation, room and board, hospital extras, and special nurses amounted to a staggering $2,800. His health insurance paid $803, but that left $1,997 still to be paid. If he had to borrow the money, it would have meant scrimping and saving for years, perhaps even losing the new house he and his wife had recently put a down payment on. But with his catastrophe policy, he had to pay only the deductible ($200) and the policy paid the rest.

His case is typical of how catastrophe insurance can save the day when a major medical expense unexpectedly arises.

In general, you'll do better buying a policy with a high deductible ($500), particularly if you have regular hospital and surgical coverage. The premiums for a $500-deductible policy are 30 percent cheaper than that for the same policy with only a $200-deductible.

When you're selecting your catastrophe policy, avoid any which lists the particular diseases it pays on. You want blanket coverage that pays no matter what the cause of the big medical bill.

Some policies pay only 75 percent to 80 percent of hospital, medical, and nursing bills (above the deductible), and while it is better, naturally, to have 100 percent coverage, premiums on these "coinsurance" policies are much cheaper.

AS WITH other types of insurance, a catastrophe policy is cheaper when bought on a group basis. Some companies already have added this coverage to the basic hospitalization and surgical plans covering their employees, so check to see if it's available where you work. If it isn't, perhaps you could suggest that the company investigate the possibility of adding it.

Catastrophe policies have some limitations and exclusions, the so-called

"The perfume didn't have the effect I thought it would. He just sat and sniffed me all evening."

'fine print." They vary from company o company, but many exclude payments 'or nervous illness or mental disorders, tuberculosis, routine pregnancy, accidents covered by workmen's compensation, Service-incurred injuries, etc.

Also, many of them expire at a certain age, perhaps 65, when you're more likely to develop a chronic illness that would fall into the catastrophe category. Others stop all payments at a certain stipulated period from the beginning of a major illness. And there are policies that can be cancelled by the company under certain conditions. For an extra premium, however, you can purchase a noncancellable policy, which you may find to be worth the added expense just for the peace of mind it offers.

Since there is no standardization of catastrophe-insurance policies, you will have to shop carefully to see which one offers you the most.

But if a major medical emergency should strike your family, you'll find that the time was well spent.

"I get discouraged, but then I remind myself that men don't marry women for their brains."

Copy this drawing on a large sheet of paper. Make the large circle with a plate at least 12 inches in diameter. Make inside circles about ¾-inch in diameter. Arrange the planets, the sun and moon as shown in the drawing. Use transparent tape to fasten the drawing to the wall or to a door.

The "rocket" may be a slender stick 4 inches long, a clothespin or unsharpened pencil. Give each guest a number beginning with 1. Select one guest to be "Launcher." He calls the numbers and gives the signal to "Fire!" The player whose number is called goes up to the drawing and looks at it one minute. He is then blindfolded. At the command "Fire!" he swings the rocket in a circle over the drawing and tries to bring his rocket down on the moon. Each player has three chances. If he lands the rocket only in space, he is out until the next game. If he misses the moon and hits the circle of the sun or of one of the planets, he becomes a Space Rider, 2nd Class. If he hits the moon, he is a Space Rider, 1st Class. The one who makes the greatest number of "hits" (on sun, moon or planets) is the winner.

3. Why is a river lazy?

A Riddle

I run as smooth as any rhyme,
I love to fall but cannot climb,

Am really needed by all mankind.

Answer:

Water.

Do you kiss your wife in public?

I don't.

I just can't.

The way I feel—public kissing is for the movies, or weddings.

I do kiss my son when I leave for work. But he is only four—and when he is fourteen we'll be shaking hands.

But don't get the idea I don't love them—just because I don't make a big scene about it.

I've got $55,000 worth of Metropolitan Life Insurance.

Think about that.

That will pay the mortgage and all our bills.

Plus Social Security it will give my wife and son $416 a month.

You buy Life insurance only because you love somebody.

I see the average insured American family has $11,000 worth.

Is $55,000 how much I love my wife and son?

No.

As soon as I can afford more, I'll call my Metropolitan Man.

Hitch Your Wagon to ASTAIRE

The years prove that a gal who dances with Fred is on her way up; Barrie Chase continues her climb on his TV spectacular Wednesday night

by Peer J. Oppenheimer

Fred and Barrie Chase rehearse for Wednesday night's TV show.

FRED ASTAIRE has been a star for more than half a century, a record that may easily make him the most venerable leading man in entertainment history.

The fact that he has unselfishly shared billing with a succession of lovely and talented partners ever since he and his sister Adele made their debut as a child dance team has not dimmed a whit the luster on his own kid pumps. To dancers like Ginger Rogers, Eleanor Powell, and Cyd Charisse, he gave the chance for stardom; and perhaps in turn a succession of new partners helped Astaire retain the perpetual youthfulness that has charmed three generations.

Next Wednesday Fred Astaire will dance with a new partner who is already becoming as closely linked with his name as Adele or Ginger. She is Barrie Chase, who danced with Fred in last year's TV spectacular, "An Evening with Fred Astaire."

This was the show that won nine Emmy awards, video's equivalent of the Oscar. Wednesday night they will appear again in a new NBC spectacular entitled, appropriately enough, "Another Evening with Fred Astaire," and if precedent is followed, 24-year-old Barrie Chase may well join the constellation of dancers who hitched their wagons to Astaire.

Actually, Barrie's greatest competition in this charmed circle comes from old Astaire fans with long memories. The lucky people who remember Fred and Adele Astaire as top vaudevillians, and later as Broadway stars of "The Bandwagon" and "Funny Face," swear this was a partnership that can never be duplicated. But movie fans who remember the great Astaire-Rogers films of the '30s say the same. Titles such as "Flying Down to Rio," "Top Hat," and "Shall We Dance?" bring a sigh of nostalgia from filmgoers who claim the worst thing that ever happened to Fred Astaire was Ginger's decision to give up musicals for straight roles.

Perhaps Fred felt this was true, for in the six years from 1939 to 1945 he danced in films with no fewer than six partners: Eleanor Powell, Paulette Goddard, Marjorie Reynolds, Rita Hayworth, Joan Leslie, and Lucille Bremmer. Some of these films, notably "Broadway Melody of 1940" and "Holiday Inn," still draw customers, either to old film houses or to the TV screen. But Fred's lack of satisfaction was reflected in his decision in 1945 to retire from dancing and devote his time to production and choreography.

Fortunately he changed his mind and in 1948 came out of "retirement" to dance with Judy Garland in Irving Berlin's "Easter Parade." It was so successful that he made a new series of movies with Betty Hutton, Jane Powell, Vera-Ellen, Cyd Charisse, Leslie Caron, and Audrey Hepburn.

Finally, last year, at an age when many people call it quits, Fred started a new career in television. He also found a new partner in Barrie Chase, who shared honors with him. Barrie comments, "The greatest opportunity a dancer could have is to dance with Fred Astaire."

I was just thinking...

WE'RE NOT HAVING a new recreation center in our town. We're not having a new courthouse, either.

We are having a new city hall, because the old one almost fell down around the mayor's ears and falling plaster hit the chief of police.

In our town, we don't go to the polls unless somebody wants to build a rendering works in the last downtown park and then, of course, we all vote against it.

But we don't very often vote for anything. We have an ancient maxim: If you're an aginner, you'll be right 75 percent of the time. We like to be right.

The militant minority in our town used to be progressive. It's composed of the people who work on committees to make our town a better place to live. None of the people gets paid for doing this—a foolish way to operate.

In our town, we vote our pocketbooks. Things like "bond issue" and "allocation of city funds" and "tax levy" can make us run faster than the threat of a Russian reaching the moon.

"Better be safe than sorry," we opine. "What?" we cry. "They're not going to put the courthouse there, are they?"

So we vote against the courthouse, any courthouse, and pretty soon Justice falls off the top and misses the clerk of the court by five inches. It gets so nobody wants to serve on a jury for fear he'll be killed—not by the defendant but by collapsing walls.

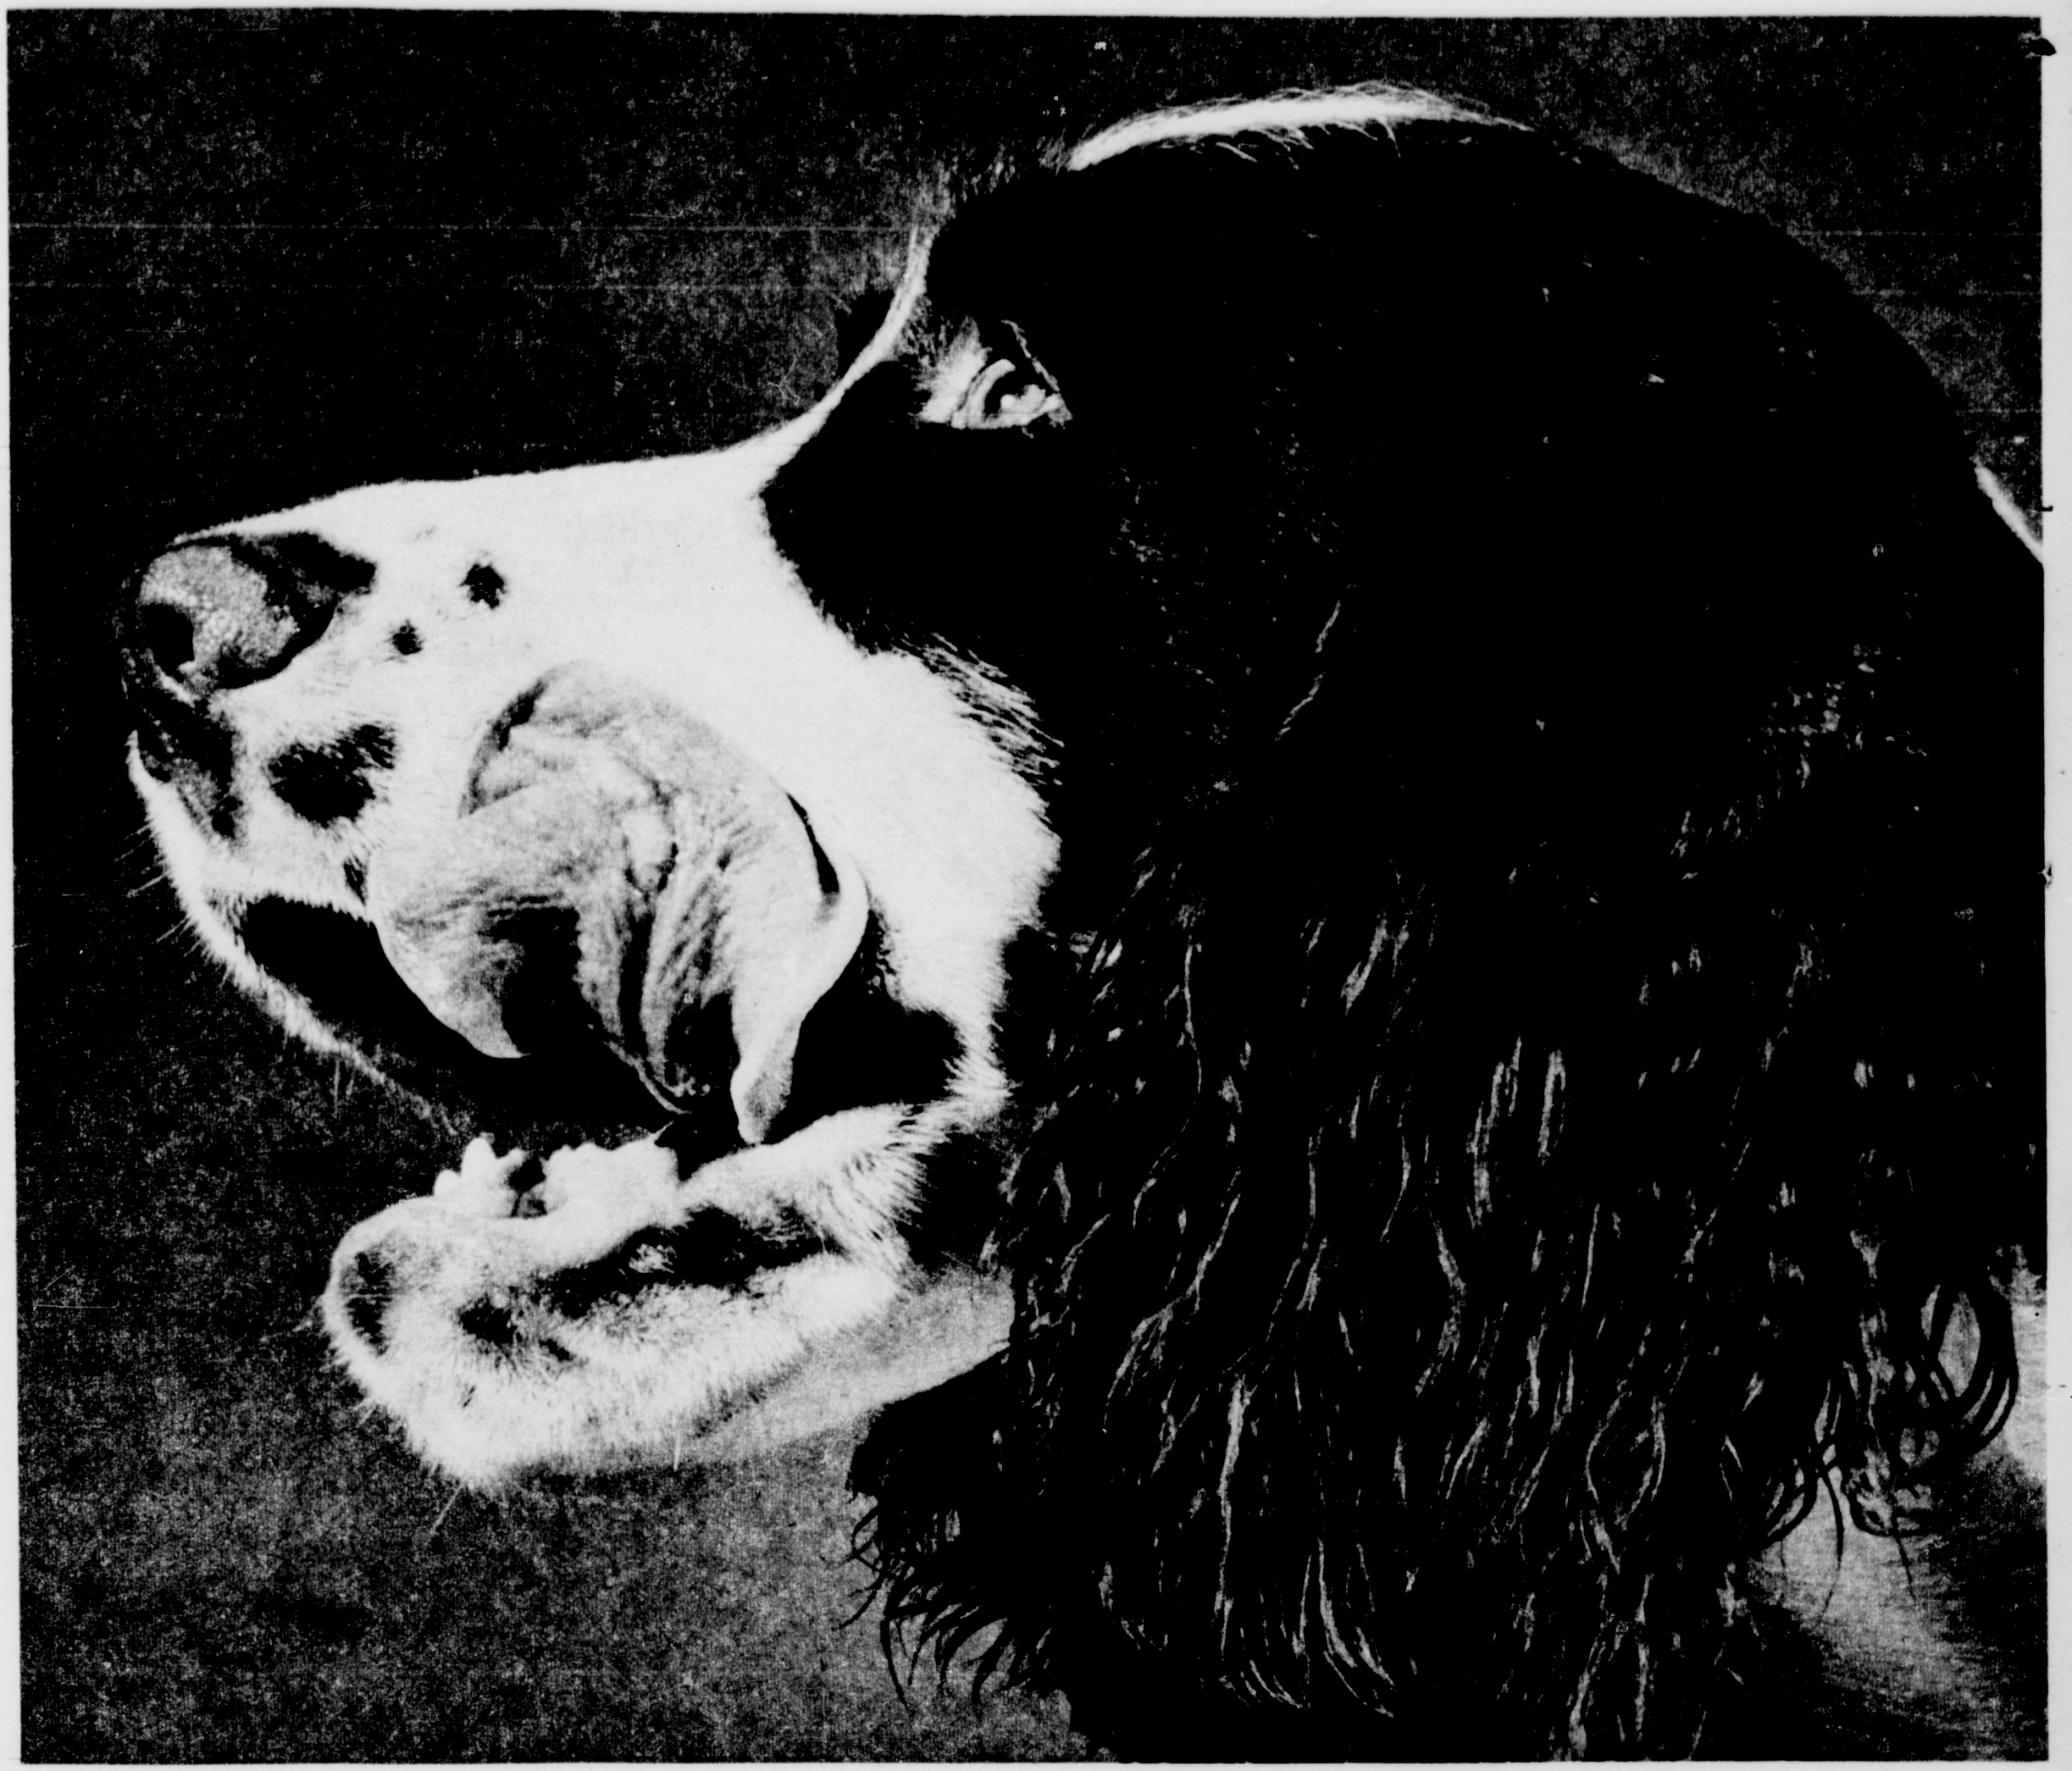

We belong to the heritage of our cautious forefathers. We make haste slowly. We say discretion is the better part of valor, and sometimes we're right.

So we vote No. If we vote. And we call it a protest vote against the wild-eyed progressives who take a stand. Our town is one of the largest in our state, but less than 5,000 turned out to vote on a new recreation center. And it lost, of course.

That's not unusual in our town. We have a reputation to maintain.

We're all in favor of progress. We just don't vote for it.

Just Imagine!

MY STORY IN THIS NEWSPAPER!

Who'd have thought when I wrote to the folks at Vitasafe that they would actually print my letter in their ads! Yes, they told me that my story was so typical of the many letters they received, they wanted to publish it. My husband and I agreed — so here it is.

He Didn't Even Kiss Me Goodnight!

Posed by professional models.

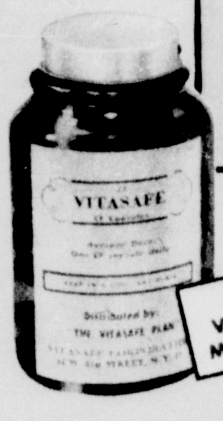

NIGHT after night my husband came home from work all tired out. He was nervous, irritable — and barely touched supper. Most of the time he'd just sit around for a while — then drop into bed, asleep as soon as his head hit the pillow. Often he didn't even kiss me goodnight . . . and yet I knew I had a good man — one who really loved me.

I know a man's tired after a day's work — but my husband was simply "dead on his feet"! You'd think he'd forgotten all about me!

Then one day we saw a Vitasafe ad in a magazine. It told about other men like my husband who had once felt tired and run-down, who had lost their pep and energy. It said that this condition may be caused by an easily corrected vitamin-mineral deficiency, and that thousands of otherwise normally healthy people had experienced a feeling of increased vitality and strength through the famous Vitasafe Plan. It offered to send a trial 30-day supply of powerful Vitasafe High-Potency Capsules so we could discover for ourselves whether my hubsand could be helped.

We had nothing to lose, so we sent the coupon. And believe me, it was the smartest thing we ever did. Now my husband's like a new man. He feels stronger and peppier than he has for a long time!

If you want to help someone you love get rid of that tired, run-down feeling, due to a vitamin-mineral deficiency, send for a 30-day trial supply of Vitasafe capsules as we did. Just mail the no-risk coupon today.
